Church Trustee Evicts Son's Family—Mrs. Everett W. Sears, Jr., and three of her four children, Nancy, 3; Richard, 6, and Thomas, 12, are shown outside the child's play tent they put up, with the father of the family, after being evicted from the Wenham home (background) of Mrs. Sears' father-in-law, Everett W. Sears, Sr., trustee of the First Congregational Church. The elder Sears says he ordered his son's family of six evicted to make room for the English war bride-widow and child of another son.

Plea for U. S. Women Held By Reds Told

Frantic appeals flashed to this country in the summer of 1943 by two Worcester women seized by the Russians and even then being tagged for shipment, along with their children, into the dreaded Siberian prison camps were described by relatives in Worcester today.

Meanwhile, the wave of shocked surprise and protest unleashed by the fighting speech of Lt. Gov. Arthur W. Coolidge had engulfed Massachusetts and was being felt in Washington

An ironic touch to the stories of Worcester relatives was added by one man, who disclosed that just as one of the mothers was being readied for her cruel exile, two of her nephews were in training in this country to aid Russia in the fight against the common enemies of World War II.

Joseph Schultz of Camp st., Worcester, is the brother of Mrs. Vladimir Carneckis, 48, the former Eleanora Schultz of Worcester.

He said today that his last communication with his sister was four years ago this summer, when he received a terse cablegram appealing for funds.

There was no return address and he was unable to comply with the request, he said. Since then, his every effort to learn the fate of his sister has met with a wall of silence despite the efforts of the State Dept. and aid from friends in the Lithuanian colony in Worcester with influential connections.

Schultz said one nephew of Mrs. Carneckis was then training with the Marines as a combat infantryman. He identified him as Daniel Mannix and related that the youth fought on Iwo Jima, was seriously wounded, and spent months in Navy hospitals. He is now recuperating on a farm near-by, Schultz said.

The other nephew was identified by the brother as Charles Schultz, son of Mrs. Gertrude Schultz of Camp st., Worcester. He was a flier with the Army Air Corps and was killed in action in his 25th bomber mission over Europe, Schultz said.

The other woman whose last message to this country was received about the same time is Mrs. Anna Kairukstis, 55, the former Anna Migauskas of Waverly st., Worcester.

Her sister, Mrs. Philip Breen of Barnard st., Worcester, said today that the last letter she received described her sister's plight.

"She wrote me that she was being sent to Siberia by the Russians in the summertime and without any winter clothing," Mrs. Breen related.

"She was evidently writing in a great hurry and told me to ship over to her many articles which she listed. That was the last I heard from her. I tried to send the articles and I have written her but received no answer."

She said the woman's husband, Anthony, joined the British army at the outbreak of the war and was with American and English forces on the continent. He has since died, but she was not certain of the cause of his death.

Her sister left Worcester after World War I to visit the grave of a brother, Thomas Migauskas, Jr., 25, a Boston University Law School student, killed in action in St. Minone, France, Mrs. Breen said.

She then traveled to Lithuania to visit her father's birthplace and while there fell in love and was married.

Names of the two Worcester women were learned by the Record-American following the speech of Lt. Gov. Arthur W. Coolidge to the state convention of the American Legion, in which he referred to a single Massachusetts woman held prisoner by the Russians, but declined to name her.

Mrs. Carneckis is the wife of the former Lithuanian premier and it is believed it was her family Coolidge referred to in his stunning Legion disclosure.

The husband of Mrs. Kairukstis was the Lithuanian minister of education. Both families were seized by the Russians when they occupied Lithuania after the infamous 1940 peace pact with Hitler.

The Record-American reporter contacting leaders of the colony of 20,000 Lithuanian Americans in Worcester concerning Mrs. Carneckis made the discovery that Mrs. Kairukstis was also a victim of Soviet despotism.

The identity of the first known victim, Mrs. Carneckis, was not revealed by Coolidge but was disclosed by her sister, Mrs. Mae Aldrich, of Downing st., Worcester.

The second victim, Mrs. Kairukstis, is one of a number of American citizens in Russian hands, many of them without friends to plead for them.

Rebels Hint New Invasion Of Greece

By ALKAIOS ANGELOPOULOUS

ATHENS, July 18 (INS)—The Athens government was reported fearful today of a new invasion of Greece by additional pro-Communist guerrillas allegedly supported by units of an international brigade.

The fears were heightened by broadcast announcements of a clandestine radio transmitter which declared a "democratic government" in opposition to the Athens regime soon would be established on Greek soil.

More concentrations of guerrillas which have been harassing the Greek army are reported assembling in the Lake Prespa area at the junction of the Greek, Yugoslav and Albanian borders.

Regular army units meanwhile sought to effect a pincer movement in the rough terrain of the northwest in an attempt to cut off guerrilla bands retreating toward the mountain areas from the region of Ioannina.

Greek army aerial units sought to ferret out the guerrillas who split up into small parties and took cover in the woods and ravines after avoiding pitched battles with ground forces.

Shooting War Near, Asserts Rep. Eaton

WASHINGTON July 18 (AP) Rep. Eaton (R.) of New Jersey, chairman of the House foreign affairs committee, declared today "We are in sight of a shooting war at this minute—in Greece."

"The Russians, as a result of the Marshall plan, have taken off their masks," he told the House rules committee. "There are alien armed forces in Greece.

"Either America will stand and hold the fort, or Russia will take over. If Russia takes over, the destiny of mankind is once more at stake."

Eaton was asking for approval of two resolutions to permit congressional committee investigations abroad this summer.

FIRE LOSS $633,457,000

NEW YORK, July 19 (AP)—Fire losses in the 12 months ended June 30 were the highest in U. S. history at $633,457,000, an increase of 22 per cent over the preceding 12-month period, the National Board of Fire Underwriters reported today.

Civic Leader, Actor Die in Plane Crash

SOUTH DARTMOUTH, July 18—Richard Clubley, 25-year-old New Yorker and summer stock actor known on the stage as Richard Brooks, was killed today in a seaplane crash here which also claimed the life of the pilot, Charles P. Golding, New Bedford public utility executive, theater enthusiast and civic leader.

Brooks died shortly after the crash, in St. Luke's Hospital.

Golding was killed instantly. The men met death before the eyes of scores of vacationists along shore and in boats.

Golding had taken off in the plane from a base operated by New Bedford Aviation, Inc. He was bringing it down for a landing in Padanaram Harbor here when it narrowly missed a bridge and plummeted into the water.

The plane, equipped with pontoons, did not sink, although it was badly damaged. Golding was dead when pulled from the wreckage.

He was sales manager of the New Bedford Gas & Edison Co. His wife has been acting as house manager for the Fairhaven Summer Theater, where Brooks was playing.

Brook's father, John Clubley of New York, a veteran character actor, has been playing with him in the Fairhaven company. They were to go on together tonight in "The Male Animal," by Philip Barry.

It was Brook's second play there. Only today the mail brought him a card from Actors' Equity, admitting him to membership. It was found in his mail box after the tragedy.

The father was taken to the hospital by executives of the stock company but his son had died.

Later this afternoon, in the tradition of the theater, the cast was rehearsing with a substitute in Brooks' role. It was not known immediately whether the father would go on with his role, as many actors have done despite family deaths.

It was Brooks' "turn" to go up in the seaplane today. Golding, who had been soloing since January, had been taking up members of the company for daily flights and the young actor had looked forward eagerly to his day in the air.

BULLETIN

SOUTH DARTMOUTH, July 18—John Clubley, veteran actor, whose actor-son, Richard Brooks, was killed in a plane crash today, will go through with his stage role tonight despite the tragedy, and with a substitute in the part which would have been played by his son.

Pilot, Fiancee Die In Air Collision

WAUSEON, O., July 18 (INS)—An engaged couple were killed, but three Army fliers escaped serious injury today when a P-61 Black Widow collided 2300 feet in the air with a light civilian plane. The civilian plane crashed two and a half miles northwest of Wauseon.

The pilot of the civilian craft was identified as Walter W. Hyde, Jr., 23, of Wellington, O., owner of the plane. His companion, who also was killed, was Joanne Brouse of Wellington. She was identified as Hyde's fiancee.

The two victims had left Wellington for a week-end trip a short time before the smashed ship and the two bodies were found on the farm of Peter Goldsmith.

Son, Family Evicted By Dad Live in Tent

WENHAM, July 18—A family row that was climaxed yesterday by a churchtrustee evicting his own son, the latter's wife and their four small children, today saw the family of six living in a child's play tent on the lot next door, with rugs serving as beds and the parents dreading what a heavy rainstorm would do to the fragile shelter.

Principals in the sorry drama of a house divided against itself were: Everett W. Sears, leading citizen and trustee of the First Congregational Church; his wife, the evicted son's stepmother, and Everett, Jr., with wife and brood, the latter ranging from 3 to 12.

Mrs. W. Sea Walter A. Sears

This dazed community received notice of the impending domestic cleavage weeks ago when a Salem newspaper carried the following advertisement:

> BING evicted May 7 by father and mothr. Need a place desperately for my wifeand four children. Please call E. W. Sears Jr., Hamilton 283-W.

It created a flurry of talk but brought no offers of a house to rent.

The elder Sears, meanwhile, was telling friends that he could no longer have his son and family living with him because he had to ready "part of the house for the widow and child of his other son, Walter, who married a girl in England while serving in the Army, then was killed in a railroad accident.

They are expected here soon, Sears said.

Yesterday he had a deputy sheriff evict Sears, junior, and family.

Today the younger Sears' stepmother said it was "a terrible thing but it couldn't be helped." She also said, "The eviction was for nonpayment of rent. He is old enough to stand on his own feet now. He's 33. He hasn't paid any rent for months. He once told us, 'You'll be paying rent to me some day.' "

The night of the eviction Sears, junior, bundled his family into his auto and they slept at a Newburyport overnight cabin. Today they returned to the lot adjoining the father's house, a parcel owned by the son, and began their camping existence.

The son, a carpenter, was off working today. His wife was trying to keep the children from "trespassing" in the backyard of the elder Sears. But the children thought the tent was quite a lark and they were too young to grasp the details of the father-son break.

The tent is a frail affair supported by a single pole, a miniature wigwam staked at four points. It contains no cooking utensils. The interior hardly suggests room for six humans, even though some of them are small.

It was the town's principal topic of conversation today.

Said the yonger Mrs. Sears, "I just hope it doesn't rain."

MR. 'VETO'—OR 'VITO'

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) — Republican National Chairman Carroll Reece issued a statement saying apparently President Truman is determined his White House tenure "shall go down in history as the veto administration."

"And you can spell it either 'veto' or 'vito' without doing violence to the facts," Reece said. "Once more Mr. Veto in the White House has followed the party line drawn in Congress by Vito Marcantonio.

Heatto Stay, Humidity Go On Week-End

New Enlanders, who have been sweltering for 12 days in tropical weather to which they are unaccustomed, were promised a good week-end today.

A mass of dry air clearing away the humidity was headed toward the region from the northwest—due to reach here late tomorrow afternoon.

While the temperatures will remain the sme, ranging between 80 and 90 degrees, the weather bureau said conditions generally will be much more comfortable.

Scattered showers were predicted—but not enough of them to interfere much with outdoor programs or to stimulate parched crops.

Reds 'Our Most Potential' Foe, General Warns Legion

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Maj.-Gen. Horace L. McBride, commanding general of the First Service Command, today told delegates to the annual convention of the Massachusetts Dept. of the American Legion that "Russia is our most potential enemy." The general, who fears other countries will have the atom bomb in five years and that this nation may be impotent by then, said of Russia:

"We could reach it by plane but we must have bases from which to attack."

"Until we approach international Utopia," he stated, "we must rely on military strength to back up our policies."

The general lauded the Legion for its vigorous support of adequate national defense and its public demand for universal military training.

"Twenty-eight years ago," said McBride, "you saw the need for universal military training. The American Legion introduced the first bill to establish it at that time. You have been fighting for it ever since.

"Now other veterans' organizations have joined you in urging it. We realize that national security embraces more than universal military training. It includes the mobilization of all resources, economic and human.

"The combat front line of 1945 has become the political and diplomatic front line of 1947—the line of the 'iron curtain.' Every realistic and practical person knows international prestige and leadership require more than good intentions and high ideals."

McBride said flatly the U. S. would be impotent in five years if the nation's armed services are not revitalized.

Other speakers included State Treas. Laurence Curtis, the Rev. Jeremiah Reardon, Chamber of Commerce President Michael T. Kelleher and Rear Adm. Morton L. Deyo, commandant of the First Naval District.

Fr. Reardon, a World War I chaplain and vice-chairman of the department rehabiliation committee, urged World War II veterans to take over Legion activities.

He asked for an all-out effort to establish veterans' service centers in the 43 communities of the Commonwealth now lacking them.

"The Commonwealth," he said, "should set up a women's hospital similar to the John Adams Hospital (the Old Soldiers' Home) in Chelsea. There are no similar facilties for women veterans."

The resolutions committee unanimously adopted a resolution favoring the Wagner-Ellender-Taft housing bill in opposition to the policy of the national Legion organization, which has been against the measure.

The resolution and another favoring resumption of co-operation with the Mass. Allied Veterans' Housing Council will be presented

British Fleet Forces Jewish Ship Into Haifa

JERUSALEM, July 18 (INS)—A British flotilla of five destroyers and a cruiser brought an illegal Jewish immigrant ship with 4500 refugees aboard into Haifa harbor today at the end of a dramatic sea battle which cost one life and scores of injuries.

Meanwhile British airborne troops moved into Haifa and the harbor area was placed under a curfew.

The refugee ship was the 1814-ton European Exodus, 1947, formerly the American steamer President Warfield.

British destroyers intercepted the immigrant ship 17 miles off the coast of Palestine and sailors boarded it in the face of teargas, smokebombs and jets of steam

House, 299-108, Overrides New Veto of Tax Bill

By WILLIAM THEIS

WASHINGTON, July 18 (INS)—President Truman today again disapproved the tax reduction bill and the House immediately overrode the veto by a vote of 299 to 108, 28 more than the necessary two-thirds majority. A total of 63 Democrats joined 236 Republicans in the vote. The legislation then went to the Senate.

Sen. Taft (R.) of Ohio announced it will be taken up promptly.

Taft said he did not know of any intention to delay a vote by extended Senate debate.

On the question of whether the Republicans could find the two votes they need to override the veto in the Senate, Taft commented:

"The boys express some optimism."

Unless there is a last-minute switch, however, the Senate will sustain the veto.

In rejecting the $4,000,000,000 GOP tax cut, the President in his message to Congress strongly implied that Russian refusal to cooperate for world stability makes such a reduction in government income risky and unwise.

The Chief Executive asserted also that the measure is "still the wrong kind of tax reduction at the wrong time."

Obviously referring to the cold attitude of the Soviet and its satellites toward the Marshall plan for European recovery, Mr. Truman said:

"The recent refusal of certain nations to join in common endeavors to establish conditions of world stability increases the difficulty of our task and exposes us to greater risk.

"Until we are better able to estimate the cost of our investment in world peace and collective security, it is unwise to make so large a cut in our government's future income that our ability to meet our needs would be impaired."

The President declared that "there is still no convincing evidence that a recession is imminent," but argued that tax reduction now would "delay the readjustment of prices and wages" necessary to maintain high prosperity.

He insisted a tax slash would increase the danger of recession and lead to higher prices for consumer goods.

The President said that, if anything, the reasons that impelled him to veto the first tax reduction bill "are more compelling now than they were one month ago."

JOSEPH CLAYTON
Routs Gunmen With Stick

Heroic Cabbie Routs Four Armed Bandits

A courageous cab driver who, when confronted with danger, could only think of his wife and child and their need of his earnings today turned on four gunmen and, armed only with a small stick, beat them into submission and forced them to flee.

The cab driver, Joseph Clayton, 23, of Elida ter., Brighton, a veteran of the 79th Army division, was hailed by four youths at Andrew sq., and ordered to drive to Summer and C sts.

On reaching Summer and D sts., a block from his destination, Clayton, found a gun sticking into his neck as one of the gunmen barked:

"Get up the dough and get out from behind that wheel.'

At this point the three in back, one of them brandishing a revolver, joined their companion, who stepped into the street and walked up to the driver's seat, yanking the door open.

Clayton said that as he slipped from his seat, his left hand dropped on the stick wedged between the seat and the floor.

Clayton whirled with the stick in his hand and, as the gunmen gaped in surprise, he started flailing with the weapon.

One of them spurted blood from a torn face while the other three wilted under a rain of blows.

The next thing Clayton realized the quartet was racing up Summer st., in the direction of the South Station and he was standing in the street alone beside his cab.

Clayton kept intact a little better than $25.

Punches Zoo Bear In Nose, Saves Boy

CHICAGO, July 18 (AP) — A city fireman punched a bear in the nose at the suburban Brookfield Zoo and thereby saved the life of 3-year-old Terry Lee Falk of Joliet.

Terry, visiting the zoo with his mother, decided to feed the black bear some of his popcorn. He clambered over the guard rail and across the safety zone. The bear seized the child and pinned him to the cage with his huge claws.

Fireman Walter Troy, attracted by the child's screams, leaped the rail and punched the bear's nose until the animal relaxed its grip.

At Berwyn Hospital, where the boy was treated for claw marks, Terry said: "I only tried to pet him."

Sutcliffe Franchise Bill Vetoed by Hynes

A city council license granted the Sutcliffe Transportation Co. earlier this week to operate 10 or more buses anywhere downtown was vetoed today by Mayor Hynes on the ground it might prove to be a virtual monopoly over many of the city's most heavily-traveled streets.

Hynes said further the license did not stipulate stopping places other than main terminals, fares or type of vehicles, as required by a city ordinance. His action paralleled that of Mayor Curley, who had vetoed a similar petition which had limited the size of the vehicles.

This latest petition was granted by the city council Monday after it had voted down, 11 to three, a demand by Councilor Milton Cook, Roxbury, for a public hearing. Immediate objections were raised by three taxi companies and the Boston Elevated Railway Co., which stated its protest in a letter to Hynes.

The cab companies met with Hynes Wednesday, and William R. Sutcliffe, head of the transportation company, conferred with the mayor yesterday.

The license would have permitted the company, now running between the airport and Copley sq., to include stops at the North and South Stations.

Mail Bride, Ex-GI Plan Wedding

NAUGATUCK, Ct., July 18 (AP)—Miss Edith Ellen Wilkins, 27, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, Eng., arrived to meet for the first time Elbert Schuckie, an American war veteran who wooed and won her by mail.

Their letter romance began last September after Schuckie, now employed as an iron worker, was shown a photograph of Miss Wilkins by Mrs. Rose Pelkie, who lives in an automobile trailer next to his own in a trailer camp here.

Mrs. Pelkie, who had known Miss Wilkins for years in Newcastle before she herself came to America as a war bride, offered to introduce him by mail, and the correspondence began which led to his proposal of marriage and Miss Wilkins' acceptance.

The bride-to-be, an attractive, vivacious young woman with sparkling hazel eyes, brown hair and a fair complexion, said the wedding would take place as soon as arrangements could be made.

Her mother, Mrs. Ethel Hannah Thompson, wanted it to be a "proper wedding," she said, and she herself wanted to be married in a garden.

Miss Wilkins said she was "delighted" with the trailer, which she said was similar to but better than English "caravans."

"I don't want to live in a house," she said. "We'll always keep the trailer."

She said she had met many Americans while employed as a waitress in a London restaurant, and anticipated no difficulty in adjusting herself to American life.

Miss Wilkins, who arrived in America aboard the SS Marine Tiger, was impressed by the quantities and varieties of food available here as compared with England where, she said, her weight dropped from 130 to 108 pounds in the last year because of rationing.

"In all the time I lived in prewar England," she said, "I never saw as much food as I have seen since I came to the States."

Mayor Gets OK On Play Facilities

The office of Federal Housing Expediter Frank R. Creedon today informed Mayor Hynes priority regulations would favor the construction of a $300,000 schoolboy stadium at an unspecified site and bathing facilities at Charlesbank beach on the Charles river.

The stadium would be constructed with money from the George Robert White Fund or from the city treasury. Hynes said he would forward a formal application for priorities to Washington immediately.

Albert Hanlon, Jr., 19, of Old Bedford rd., Lincoln, today became the first defendant to face a charge of "reckless flying" in Concord court. He pleaded nolo and was fined $25 by Judge Pierre A. Northrop.

Hanlon was prosecuted by Insp. Frank P. Sweeney of the state aeronautics commission for dangerously low flying over bathing crowds at White Pond Beach, Concord, July 6.

Flier Tells of Escape From Cockpit of Sinking Hellcat

Craig, 28 and a veteran of aerial warfare in the Pacific, of Woodbine rd., Belmont, took off from Squantum Air Station alone on a routine hop.

Lt. Com. R. F. Craig

Fifteen minutes later, traveling at a 200-mile-an-hour clip and only a few hundred feet above the water, his engine sputtered and stopped close to Graves Light.

"I only had a few seconds to act, and there wasn't enough altitude for me to try to get the motor going again. So I picked up my radio and told the Squantum tower, 'I'm going into the drink. I'm making a ditch landing a half mile northeast of Graves Light.

"I leveled off for a landing in the rough seas and then suddenly I hit the surface. The spray was tremendous and I got quite a jar, I guess.

"A huge rush of water swallowed the plane as it rose on its nose and fell over on its back. Water seemed to pour over the ship from all directions.

"Things looked tough, then. At first I was not sure whether it was just spray or whether I was going under.

"Then I felt the plane sinking and water poured into the small cockpit. I was sitting upside down, held in the seat by my safety belt and settling lower beneath the surface.

"I released the transparent cockpit canopy and tugged at it, but it was jammed. I kept sinking until I suppose I was at least 10 feet below the surface. Then I gave a final, violent tug and the canopy slid back enough for me to squeeze out.

"I kicked free of the sinking plane and swam upward until I broke the surface and could get a good long breath of air."

Craig released a colored dye marker to catch the eye of passing planes, then hurrying from Squantum to his aid. But a yacht, the Dorcas II bound from Boston to Marblehead, picked him up and gave him first aid.

A Navy ambulance met the yacht but Craig was in such good condition that after a check at Squantum Air Station doctors allowed him to go home to assure his wife, Georgia Lee Craig, that he was "safe and shipshape."

PATRICIA EFFERLING, 17
Blonde Runaway Goes to Court

3 Men, Blonde Face Trial on Dope Charges

Three men, arrested with a 17-year-old Chicago girl in a downtown Boston hotel raid last Saturday night, retracted earlier pleas of guilty to narcotics charges in municipal court today and Judge Daniel J. Gillen continued their cases to next Tuesday for hearing.

The girl, Patricia Efferling of West Farwell ave., Chicago was in court today clad in a new bright red dress. Unlike the three other defendants, she was not represented by counsel and her plea of guilty remained on the records. Her case also was continued to Tuesday.

The three male defendants were Nathan Lewis, of West 49th st., New York city; Bernard Comer, of South Second st., Philadelphia, and Winfred Reid, of West 87th st., New York city.

Comer and Miss Efferling are charged with a morals offense. Comer is accused of possessing marijuana found in a bottle and marijuana cigarets seized by police during the hotel raid.

The girl, Reid and Lewis are charged with being present where narcotics were found. Comer, Lewis and Miss Efferling are held in bail for $3000 each. Reid's bail is $5000. Miss Efferling's mother, Eleanor, was with her daughter in court.

Mrs. Efferling, who sobbed openly in court, was comforted by Harold G. Ruttledge, who identified himself afterwards as a World War I buddy of Patricia's father. Mrs. Efferling is a widow. Her husband was a Chicago doctor. Ruttledge said he came to Boston to do what he could to aid the girl and her mother.

Patricia and Comer were the only defendants detained this afternoon for lack of bail. Reid's father, Dr. William E. Reid, a Leesville, La., surgeon, posted money for his son's freedom, supplying the $5000 bail in travelers' checks. Lewis was out on bail before today's hearing.

In retracting their pleas of guilt by their clients, Attys. George Leary for Lewis, Joseph M. McDonough for Reid and Samuel H. Cohen for Comer, told the court the defendants were not represented by counsel when they made their original pleas and did not realize the seriousness of the charges.

Hedy Lamarr Wins Divorce From 3d Mate

HOLLYWOOD, July 18 (INS)—Hedy Lamarr, the screen's glamor queen, shed her third husband in divorce court with five minutes of testimony that he was "extremely indifferent" to her.

A gaping crowd, composed mostly of young girls, listened avidly as the exotic star related that British-born John Loder habitually fell asleep on a sofa in the early evening while she tried to engage him in conversation.

The actress appeared in the packed courtroom wearing dark glasses and a red, white and blue silk dress. She removed the glasses and held them in her hand while she testified. She said:

"During the last two years Mr. Loder was extremely indifferent to me.

"He was very casual in his attitude toward me and the children.

"I got in such a nervous state I was under a doctor's care and still am."

Loder did not contest the divorce

Jockey's Girl

ANN DEMOGENES
Her Boy Friend Reinstated

Downs Lifts Ban as Jockey, Girl Make Up

Jockey Jose Espinosa and Ann Demogenes, 18, of Wiggins st., Lowell, were back on friendly terms today. And the young apprentice rider, suspended Tuesday when Ann's sisters complained she was missing, was reinstated by Suffolk Downs officials for this afternoon's races.

Things got straightened out when Ann and the jockey met in the track office of State Police Lt. Michael J. Cullinane. He reported Ann told him she had no complaint against Espinosa, that she had gone away voluntarily. The Lowell girl and the star apprentice rider "shook hands and patted each other in friendly fashion, the detective reported.

On the basis of this friendly reunion, Cullinane said he reported to track officials that there was nothing to warrant suspension of the jockey.

As soon as Steward Billy Almy announced that Espinosa was back in good standing at the track, he was booked immediately for seven mounts on today's card. Two of his scheduled rides were on Idle Ever in the third, and Single Ace in the eighth.

Cut Finger Blamed In Poisoning of 80

Staphylococcus germs from the cut finger of a woman serving food at the annual luncheon of the Parish Aid Society, St. Michael's Episcopal Church, Marblehead, may have been responsible for the poisoning of 80 prominent Greater Boston and North Shore women, Dr. Roy Feemster of the State Health Dept., said today.

While a Wakefield district doctor prepared to investigate, eight victims were reported still in Mary A. Alley Hospital for treatment of severe stomach cramps.

They are:

Mrs. Louise Harris, Washington st.; Mrs. Cora Luscomb, Washington st.; Mrs. Bertha Sloan, Front st.; Mrs. Mary Brackett, Village st.; Mrs. David Norton, mother of Rev. David Norton, pastor of the church, all of Marblehead; Mrs. Valerie Sowlhover, Waverly st., Brookline; Mrs. Margaret E. Ford, Brattle st., Cambridge, and Miss Mabel Hale, Garden st., Boston.

Feemster said the germs possibly had been transferred from the cut to the chicken salad, main luncheon course. Definite establishment of the salad as poisoning agent would be almost impossible, he said, because none was left for laboratory tests.

The staphylococcus germ, which will cause acute cramps for two or three hours, Feemster added, is so common it can be found in dust swept from the top of a desk.

Race Bias Victim Now Must Wait Till Year's End for Car

AHOSKIE, N. C., July 18 (INS)—Negro war veteran Harvey Jones today was told by the local Cadillac dealer he probably wouldn't get the car he won in a Kiwanis Club lottery until the end of the year.

Jones, became the center of a nationwide controversy when the club first refused to award him the car because of his race. The club maintained that the raffle was open only to white people and refunded the dollar Jone had paid for a ticket.

The club changed its mind after receiving protests from throughout the nation.

N. E. Kiwanis Club Raps Ahoskie Action

Edward F. Penshorn, Boston, governor of the New England district of Kiwanis International, today said the raffle-reneging action of the Ahoskie, N. C., Kiwanis club "was contrary to the purposes and practice of Kiwanis," but added:

"Nowhere is there more indignation than among Kiwanians, and particularly in the Carolinas. Harvey Jones will get his car but the incident indicates the need of a renewed effort by right-minded people to strive for the elimination of racial and religious prejudice and bigotry. Kiwanis has an outstanding record of personal and community service for 32 years and it is pledged to follow that path."

Meanwhile the Boston Kiwanis Club called on the international organization to act against a recurrence of the Ahoskie development.

The request was contained in a resolution passed by the Boston club last night. It also called upon fellow citizens of every race, color and creed to co-operate with the Kiwanis by demonstrating a spirit of amity and brotherhood toward their fellow Americans.

The resolution was signed by Thomas J. Donaldson, president; Frederick A. Watson, vice-president, and L. Francis Kennedy, secretary.

Other Bay State clubs to join in the nationwide protest against the action of the Ahoskie group were those of Haverhill and Newburyport.

President John J. DiTommaso of the Haverhill club said he would recommend to the board of directors at Monday night's meeting that a letter of protest be sent to Kiwanis International.

Dr. Marron W. Fort, director of the Newburyport Kiwanis and chairman of the club's public affairs committee, charged the Ahoskie group with violating a principle that exists even among thieves—"the right to collect winnings in a game of chance."

At a meeting of city department heads to make final arrangements for the Field Day, Mayor Hynes revealed the fund recently offered an artificial eye to a schoolboy victim of a baseball accident.

British State in Palestine Protested in Senate

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, July 18—Eight senators today accused Great Britain of setting up a military police state in Palestine in violation of a League of Nations mandate.

In a formal resolution submitted to Congress the senators denounced British oppression, and charged destruction of elementary civil rights and liberties.

Death sentences imposed by the British on three members of the Hebrew resistance movement were branded as "cruel and unusual punishment" for an attempt at Jewish liberation in which no lives were lost.

State Sec. Marshall was called on to protest Great Britain's occupation army of 120,000 troops in Palestine to "His Britannic Majesty's government."

Marshall would also be directed under the resolution "to request His Britannic Majesty's government immediately to re-establish a civilian administration and civil liberties to the people of Palestine."

Sen. arren G. Magnuson (D.) of Washington, who introduced the resolution, told the Senate British persecution of the Jews in Palestine is part of England's imperialist policy.

"Why Great Britain has not lived up to her pledges under the League of Nations mandate I do not know," Magnuson stated. "Perhaps it is because terror in Palestine offers the only excuse she has to keep troops in the Middle East."

Magnuson lashed out at the Arabs, who have been receiving preferential treatment, declaring that during the recent war many were active collaborationists with the Axis powers.

In contrast, he said, resisting Jews in Europe were slaughtered by the Nazis until out of 7,000,000 only 1,500,000 remain.

"And most of this remnant are displaced persons, homeless and broken in spirit and health. Their promise of a Hebrew homeland, given in a treaty between the U. S. and Great Britain in 1924, has been broken and voided," he said.

Magnuson was joined in his resolution by Sens. Francis J. Myers (D.) of Pennsylvania, William Langer (R.) of North Dakota, Wayne Morse (R.) of Oregon, James E. Murray (D.) of Montana, Glen H. Taylor (D.) of Idaho, Dennis Chavez (D.) of New Mexico, and Milton R. Young (R.) of North Dakota.

Sen. Morse likened British oppression in Palestine to that inflicted by her in America prior to 1776 which brought the Colonies to a war of independence.

The resolution itself constitutes stern indictment against the British government.

Truman Speeds Study Abroad

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—President Truman put into effect today an arrangement by which several thousand Americans are expected to study in foreign universities with expenses paid by the sale of surplus war materials.

Mr. Truman named Gen. Omar N. Bradley, veterans administrator and nine other officials and educators to select the students and supervise administration of the Fulbright Act which Congress approved last year.

Some 12,000 have already applied for scholarships under the act and the State Department said the first would be sent abroad probably in the fall of 1948. Five thousand of the applicants are World War II veterans who would be given preference.

Head Bumps Floor, Regains Memory

MIAMI, Fla., July 18 (AP)—An amnesia victim fainted today, bumped his head on the floor at Police headquarters, and regained his memory.

He then told Detective C. W. Potterson that he was Wilfred Joseph Roberge, 39, of Laurens, S. C.

Roberge is a native of France but now is an American citizen and a war veteran. The Federal Bureau of Investigation gave his address as Manchester, N. H., where he once lived.

After recovering his memory, Roberge told Potterson he left Laurens to enter the Veterans Hospital at Columbia, S. C., and the last thing he remembered was reading a book in a Columbia hotel. He appeared at Police headquarters two days ago saying he could not remember his name or home.

Thomas K. Finletter, New York city attorney and former special assistant to the Secretary of State, will be chairman. Other members are:

George P. Baker, professor of transportation at the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration, vice-chairman; Palmer Hoyt, publisher of the Denver Post; Henry Ford II Detroit, head of the Ford Motor Co., and Arthur Dare Whiteside, president of Dun and Bradstreet.

Wives' Protests on Bets Cost Lynn Man $200

Wives of many General Electric workers, complaining that their husbands were squandering their wages on horse bets, prompted a police raid which landed Salvatore Felandese, 25, of Edwards ct., Lynn, in Lynn court today, charged with registering bets.

Felandese admitted guilt and was fined $200. He was arrested outside the gates of the GE River Works plant when police, who had set a trap, discovered horse plays were being sent out in a sealed envelope tucked under a wire fence.

We Were Stuck!

Upholstered Furniture

Chairs, chairs and chairs. A whole bunch of them in both barrel and wing styles. They are real good ones, too, for they all have spring seats, hardwood frames and attractive, durable coverings. What the story is we don't know, perhaps they are so comfortable our salesmen just want to keep them to sit in or maybe it's the hot weather, anyway they didn't sell at the original $98 price so now they are going to leave home at only $66 each. You'll find some of each style in various covers at all Kane stores.

Studio couch with quality innerspring construction and handsome blue novelty covering that will give you years of service. There is really nothing the matter with it but it is a number we have discontinued and we want to get rid of it in a hurry. Originally $98.75, now $46 . . . less than half price.

The answer to the $64 question. Maple chairs with hardwood frames, innerspring seats and backs and a handsome matching ottoman goes with every one. Here are the facts, 106 of them in wine colored covering and 8 in beige. Originally they were all marked $98.75, now you can have your choice, $64.

What, you have no rocker? Well here is your chance. Just to show you we are not fooling, here's a quality platform rocker with lovely Maple finished hardwood frame, innerspring seat construction and handsome wine covering that was originally marked $49.95, for only $29.75.

Like Jimmy Durante, we've got millions of them. Occasional chairs in wine stripe, beige or blue covering. All have coil spring seats and mahogany finished hardwood frames. We ran a sale on them and still have some left. We're really mad, so the original $69.95 price goes down to $34.95.

Boudoir chairs. We bought them as perfect but our eagle-eyed shipper discovered slight imperfections . . . you'll hardly notice them. They would make swell Christmas presents if you can keep the covering clean that long . . . we never could. Originally $13.95, now your choice in wine or blue figured chintz, only $5.95.

We overpaid on most all of our high grade boudoir chairs and to make matters worse quite a few of them have become slightly soiled, mostly just from surface dust or from customers trying them out. To make matters even and a real bargain for you, take off $15 from any boudoir chair on floor marked $35 or more.

We can't stand either of these sofas, so we are cutting the price like nobody's business. One in chartreuse is in our Cambridge store. Originally was $359, now $198. The other in rose is at our Boston store. Originally $478, now $269. You can't go wrong on either; it's just the fancy colors that get our goat.

Here Sofas . . . where do they come from? Choose from two handsome styles both with high grade spring construction, and stunning figured wine covering. Originally $159, now $145.

Two-piece living room suite in rich tan covering. It is the last of a big lot. It's a doggone good suite, the only trouble is we were dumb and left it in the warehouse when nobody could buy it if they wanted to. Originally $210, now $179, and it has full spring construction, too.

Honest, this three-piece sofa-bed suite leads a dual life. You can use it in the daytime as a regular living room outfit and at night open up the sofa-bed to a full size bed with innerspring sleeping surface. Includes Sofa-Bed, Platform Rocker and matching Lounge Chair . . . all with handsome Maple finished hardwood frames and arms. Choice of two different covers. Three pieces. Originally $235, now $169.

Relaxation is what these famous Simmons and New England Bedding Co. Chaise Lounges were made for. They both have innerspring cushions with handsome nail cloth covering. Originally $39.50. Choice, $25.00, and that is pretty close to what they cost us.

Simmons and Barcalo steel chairs for lawn or porch. Both have spring steel action and handsome Permatex or simulated leather covered seats and backs. They are such a steal at this price we won't even mention the original. Choice while they last, $14.95.

Anything to get rid of these Maple Arm Sofa-Beds. All have innerspring construction, all have convenient bedding storage compartments in the base and all open to full size beds. Handsome Maple finished hardwood arms and panel ends together with luxurious striped novelty covering make them look like a million dollars. Originally $79.95 to $89.95, now choice of three numbers, $46.

Sofas, sofas, sofas. When we bought them a few months ago they were supposed to be hot post war values, now we have our doubts. Even though they look good, and are good, they just don't sell fast enough. Originally they were $198 to $225. Now you can take your choice of styles and fabrics for only $169.

Dinettes

Skip this if you don't like modern. We actually expected $98 for these wheel finished five-piece dinette suites. They have chrome legs and the table tops are of glass and the matching chairs have red simulated leather seats. Profit or no profit, out they go . . . 5 Pieces complete for only $39.

Looking for a real pre-war oak veneered five-piece dinette with a rich, glowing hand rubbed finish. Table has handsome decorated top and chairs have comfortable seats. We had them a long, long time, in fact too long, as they are marked down from the original $98 price to $45.95.

New plastic top five-piece dinettes. You know the kind . . . the top is built to withstand all kinds of abuse and still look like a million dollars. Table and four matching chairs, originally $124, now $84.

Porcelain enamel top breakfast sets used to be our best sellers, but in this case something has happened . . . perhaps it was our fault and we didn't even have them where the customers could see them. Five pieces, including porcelain enamel top table and four matching chairs. Originally $98, now $69.95.

Just when everyone seems to want big nine-piece suites we have these nifty little dinettes that are perfect for small spaces and nooks. Includes Walnut veneered table and four matching chairs with red simulated leather seats. Originally $118.75, now $79.95.

Take home one of these and you'll have a bargain. It must as if nobody wants them any more. Yes, they are stainless porcelain enamel top kitchen tables with white enameled finish hardwood base. Has convenient cutlery drawer. Originally $32.50, now $22.00.

We're worn out trying to sell the odd breakfast suite chairs. They have graceful braced backs and glowing maple finish and are made entirely of fine hardwoods. Originally $8.95, now $4.95 each.

A Bit of Everything

Oh! Boy! They would look beautiful in the right spot but we can't seem to find it. Tall, stately secretaries with gleaming red or black Chinese lacquer finish. They are some people are crazy about them. If you are included, the original $398 price is now $149.

Personally we've always felt kindly towards nice walnut veneered hardwood Lamp Tables, but our buyer bought so many that he must be in love with them. Originally $12.95, now $6.95.

Hand-decorated cocktail tables. Somebody worked like the dickens to make them attractive and we paid plenty to have them do it, yes, we actually abolted our $10 spiece estate to have the decorations hand painted . . . were we stupid. Originally 39.5, now $14.95.

Bridge floods will like these Walnut or Mahogany veneered and gumwood card tables. You can use your own chairs or we can probably dig up some for you if you are not too fussy. Tables originally $29.95, now $19.95.

If your wife objects to your flicking your ashes on the floor we can help you out with one of these metal ash stands. They have a built-in tray to hold your drink too. They originally sold for $6.95, now $2.95.

They will stroll away . . . that is what we hope will happen to these strollers, beachcarts and folding carriages . . . some even have the famous Siebert name on them. Originally $17.95, now your choice, $9.45.

We're taking hundreds and hundreds of Pictures that were originally marked from $1.50 to $3.98 and putting them in one big lot and offering them to you for only one buck ($1.00) each. You'll find a wide selection of assorted subjects, frames and sizes.

We were not too bright when we let our buyer buy so many of these Table Lamps both in metal and pottery bases and of course they are complete with shades. We thought we could get from $14.95 to $17.55 for them but it was too much, so now you can take your choice for $9.00 each.

Junior floor lamps, all with maple finished hardwood standards and complete with shades. We definitely paid too much for them as now we are going to take our licking and like it. Choose from seven different numbers. Originally marked $12.95 to $17.95, now only $9.46.

There must be people who need lamp sets consisting of junior floor lamp, bridge lamp and torchiere that match perfectly for they were made to go together. It's torture for us, but it should be pleasant for you, for the original $17.95 price is now $12.50 for each lamp.

For months everybody was looking everywhere for one of these and nobody had them . . . now everybody has, but not at these prices. Steel Kitchen Cabinet Sinks with plastic or linoleum tops in red or blue. All carry the famous "Traywell" name. Original $170 model now $98. Original $198 model now $119. Original $114 model now $79.

We're taking the heart out of these convenient little maple finished hardwood writing table desks. They were fast sellers last Christmas, but no good now. Originally $17.50, now $12.95.

Dollars to Doughnuts it's a long time since you've seen a value like this. The story is we simply bought too many. Yes, our maple finished coffee tables originally marked and sold at $7.95 are now only $3.98.

Dirty Clothes will be out of sight and they won't mildew in these self-ventilating Pearl Wick hampers. We have plastic pearl tops and we think you can find a color to go with your bathroom. Choice of three styles originally $5.95, now $4.95.

Mirror miracle. You can search from here to Madagascar but you will never find better-made looking glasses than these French plate mirrors. You'll find them hanging all over our stores. Just grab hold of a tag and see the original $24.00 to $29.50 prices . . . now they are only $15.

Have a heart and help us out with these Innerspring Mattresses and give your body the kind of rest it deserves at the same time. Come in and wander around . . . Many odds and ends in mattresses and box springs in discontinued tickings in both full and twin sizes . . . not enough of any one kind to list specifically but a whole of a lot of them to select from when you put them all together. Reductions range from one-third to one-half.

Bedroom Furniture

We were fooled; they told us vanities would sell with this suite so we bought them, but it was no go, so now you can buy this wonderful Mahogany Veneered hardwood suite consisting of full size bed, dresser, vanity and chest, originally fairly priced at $278, for only $199. If you're like the rest of the people and still don't want the vanity the price is only $149.

Who said white enamel bedrooms would sell? Our buyers thought they looked wonderful and we did, too, but Mr. and Mrs. New England didn't go for them in a big way and the boss wants action, so out they go. Dresser, bed and chest, originally $214, now $189.

Darned if our three-piece Colonial suites didn't multiply. We sold dozens and dozens of these handsome Maple finished hardwood suites consisting of Dresser, Bed and Chest at $178, and when we took stock we found that we had dozens and dozens left. Now you can take one home for only $159.95.

Someone did a job on us and busted up these fine Maple finished hardwood suites by selling a piece from this one and that one separately, till we got stuck with these . . . three full size beds originally marked $32 now only $21 . . . two chests originally marked $37.50, now $27 . . . four, yes, we said four, vanities originally marked $65, now $39.50.

We just received a dozen of these three-piece Colonial Maple finished hardwood suites about two weeks ago, and while the design is excellent, the finish is good, the interior construction and workmanship isn't up to our standards, for they are strictly a war time product. We intended to sell them for $198, but under the circumstances you can buy a Dresser, Bed and Chest all for only $119.

Our buyer convinced us that bleached mahogany . . . that new light mahogany finish was just what everybody in N. E. was looking for . . . so we bought these gorgeous Mahogany veneered suites for a concealable combination. Everybody must have changed their mind for we still have them. Originally the dresser full size bed and chest were marked $354, now the price is only $319 . . . with twin beds, the original tag said $429, now its $389 . . . If you want the works, dresser, bed, vanity, chest and bench, the price is $461—originally was $524.50.

Another bleached Mahogany Veneered hardwood suite consisting of double dresser, large plate glass mirror, full size bed and chest of drawers with the finest construction in every detail. The pieces are all of generous size. In fact, they are quite large for the average small room. If you have plenty of wall space, it's a "buy" at only $198, originally was $389.

Modern and smooth are two words that actually describe this handsome walnut veneered hardwood suite. It's different, too, for it includes full size bed, dresser and wardrobe. We thought it would be just the thing for a perfect setup for a bedroom with small closet space . . . maybe those modern homes have more closet room than we think. Originally $249 . . . now $219.

Only two of these and how the devil we got stuck with them we'll never know. Hardwood full size bed, dresser and chest with a fair Maple finish . . . frankly they are not so bad, but look at the price, originally $118, now $89.50.

Walnut veneers always went big but this suite is a little off shade, we guess, because it didn't go at all. It has handsome waterfall design tops and will give you excellent service. If you don't mind the dark finish you'll save a pretty penny. Dresser, bed and chest originally $178, now $159.

Vanities again, yes, another fine modern walnut veneered hardwood suite consisting of vanity, dresser, chest and full size bed, originally $193.95, now $169.

Odd maple finished hardwood chest of drawers . . . just the thing to match nicely with an odd maple bed. We marked them originally at $29.95 and they stayed with us, but at $19.95 we bet they will leave in a hurry.

Full size Maple finished hardwood beds in lovely colonial design. Two distinctive styles to choose from. The original price on both was $24.55, now you can have your choice of either for only $16.

Save $20 on this walnut veneered hardwood dresser with three roomy drawers. Originally it was $59.50 but now it's only $39.50 and to make the deal even better we'll give you a mirror with it.

A sleigh ride is what we went for when we bought so many of these Mahogany veneered beds in both full and twin size because even though we sold hundreds and hundreds we still have too many left. You can help us out and save money at the same time. Originally $47.95, now your choice of either size $39.50. If you want an extra twin size bed you can have it for $13.75 extra.

The small fry can be taught to be neat and we have just the thing to do it with. Children's Cantonware in lovely blue or pink enamel finish. Originally $5.00, now $3.95.

Rugs

Shag rugs . . . you know the kind . . . they are soft and squishy and have that luxurious feeling when you walk on them. All carry the famous Tumble-Twist label. Oh, how this hurts . . . 9x12 ft. sizes in blue, rose or white. Originally $108.00, now $39.95 . . . You actually save more than you spend. 6x9 ft. sizes in wine or rose. Originally $54.00, now $29.95.

If you promise to give it a good home you can have one of these famous Arlloom 9x12 ft. Wilton rugs . . . and they are all in wanted colors and patterns, at a $30.00 saving. The only thing the matter is . . . we have too many. Originally $179, now $145.

Odd lengths of 27" stair carpet. The only hitch is that some must be sold in lengths on hand (some we can cut to the length you want). Good assortment of colors and patterns. Sorry, none at our Quincy store. Originally $5.18 to $7.35 per square yard. Now your choice, $4.98 per sq. yard.

Somebody, perhaps you, has a room that can take an odd size such as 12x12, 12x16, 12x11 or 11.3x15; come in and browse around for we have it for you at a saving of 25% or more.

Electrical

Time on our hands. We really can't blame the buyer because they look good to us, too. Window Electric Clocks in handsome simulated Tortoiseshell cases in various colors. They keep good time but are awfully slow movers . . . so we are marking the original $15.50 price down to $8.95.

Aeroplane clocks . . . they are made in the form of a scale model of a big bomber with propellers and all the fixings such as chrome plating all over the things. They are poised all set for a take-off and we wish they would take-off from here in a hurry. If you are air-minded maybe you can use one. Originally $15.75, now $10.95.

Birtman Electric Vacuum Cleaners . . . the buyer says they are the stick type and he's right for we are certainly "stuck" with them. We tried one out and it works swell . . . would even pick up folding money along with pins and what have you. Originally $59.95, now $39.96.

Town and Country Travel Irons . . . the lightweight kind you can tuck in a week-end case. Either our customers don't travel or they want a heavy one that they can really throw around. The ones we have are plenty heavy for us . . . we can't even move them. Originally $5.99, now only $4.79.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Copyright, 1947, King Features Synd., Inc.

EUROPE IS NOW DIVIDED into East and West. The boundaries are carefully drawn. It is a division similar to that which ended the great Roman Empire, the division between Rome and Byzantium.

It was not Soviet Russia that decided which countries were to be behind her iron curtain. By agreement at Yalta, Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin, on their own, without consulting other countries that were victims of or fighters in the war, in utter disregard of history or human welfare, reached private and secret conclusions.

Certainly, Roosevelt and Churchill forced upon their own countries unconstitutional faits accomplis from which there could be no retreat short of war. Already caught in a morass by the scandalous Teheran decisions, these portents of evil were confirmed by Molotov, Truman and Attlee at Potsdam.

Entirely as a result of these decisions, the world is divided into two major areas, with numerous and confusing minor splits.

IN THE EAST: Soviet Russia holds Finland, Albania, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Yugoslavia, Poland, Hungary and Bulgaria in a tight grip. To these, Russia hopes to add Greece, Turkey, most of Germany, Italy, Korea, North China, Manchuria and Iran, in the shortest possible time by infiltration, revolution, coup d'etats and similar devices short of world war.

IN THE WEST: The United States, Great Britain, France, Italy, Holland, Belgium, the Scandinavian countries, China and eventually Japan, so much of Germany as these countries can control, Austria, Switzerland, all the British dominions, and the South American countries stand together. To them is added the countries of the Arab League.

OMITTED: Spain. The omitted country needs to be included for strategic reasons but the so-called democracies lack the political nerve to pursue political logic.

They may force Western Spain into the Eastern group by an absurd and rigid acceptance of ridiculous terminology that the Russians invented and use most skillfully.

WITH FEW OVERLAPPINGS, on the West stand the countries of European culture and civilization, with some Asiatic allies; on the East stand the Asiatic countries with some European allies. It is a division as old as the Roman Empire, the capital in the East now being Moscow instead of Constantinople.

Religiously these peoples divide themselves similarly, the Roman Catholic and Protestant countries forming the Western sphere, with Moslem associates; the East tends to the Oriental churches, to Asiatic materialistic, non-ethical concepts, to state-controlled and dominated forms of religious expression and moral decision.

It is a cleavage that has existed throughout history, except in the rare liberal and enlightened periods during which individuals were, in many places but not everywhere, free to choose for themselves.

Economically up to this day the countries in the Western group provide the wealth of the world. If Mittleuropa, that is, Germany, Austria, and Italy, remain in the Western group, little usable and movable wealth exists outside this group. They have been the providers, the Easterners the takers.

HOWEVER, what wealth Soviet Russia has been able to develop during the war years, first with German assistance and subsequently with American assistance, nobody knows. That has been kept secret, although certain data has come through military and economic intelligence, escaped prisoners of war, escaped displaced persons, traveling engineers, Soviet publications and an analysis of their purchases abroad which are a guide to their needs.

From such information, it might be guessed—and it is no better than a guess—that the Eastern world lags behind the West as it has lagged behind the West for 2000 years.

Initatively, the East can and does utilize the mechanization of industry and agriculture and the means of communication, but it remains too concerned with the control of the body and mind of the individual and too fearful of changes in governmental administration to give to the human mind that free sway of interest and activity which in the West has been so productive of human progress in all fields.

If manpower alone were the test of strength, the Eastern group would soon dominate the world, but history proves conclusively that final victory in any era falls to the human mind and the human spirit. Its strength comes from individual liberty and the free exercise of choice and will.

Such freedom exists only in the Western world.

Ex-Red Brands Eisler as Moscow Lecturer

By DAVID SENTNER

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, July 18—William O'Dell Nowell, of Detroit, former Communist, identified Comintern Agent Eisler at the latter's passport fraud trial as an ace lecturer at the Communist international come-the-revolution training school in Moscow.

The witness said he attended the institution, known as the International Lenin School, in 1931 and 1932, where sabotage, espionage, train-wrecking, and revolutionary street fighting formed part of the course.

In previous testimony before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, Nowell revealed how American Communists were instructed at the school on how to capture a city.

He testified:

"We were told how to seize the most vital means of communications, transportation, lighting, water supply, food, etc.; and, of course, the army, the armed forces, any arms that were stored; transmission of code messages and street fighting."

Eisler was known at the school as Comrade Gerhart, the witness asserted, and among his pet Communist blueprints for the U. S. was the establishment of a Negro Soviet Republic.

It was on this subject that Nowell, a Negro, clashed with Eisler and subsequently renounced Communism.

Eisler is charged with concealing his operations in the U. S. as a Comintern representative and denying he was in the country before 1941.

"I could use them uppers," said one robber, pocketing Bilotti's denture as he left the shop.

Everett Mayor's Funeral Monday

While the city of Everett went into official mourning today for its sixth-term chief executive, Mayor Frank E. Lewis, 44, who died at Whidden Memorial Hospital two weeks after being stricken at his summer home in Brewster, funeral services were set for Monday at 2 p. m., at Glendale Methodist Church, Everett.

The services will be conducted by Rev. Harry F. Folger, pastor, and burial will be in Woodlawn Cemetery, Everett. Ald. Ambrose T. English, as acting mayor, announced that the city hall and municipal offices will be closed all day Monday. Flags on all public buildings in the city were at half staff.

Members of his family were at his bedside when the end came, including his soldier son, Sgt. Frank E., Jr., who was flown to the hospital from his Army base in New Mexico under special leave to be with his father. Also surviving are the mayor's wife, Mrs. Dorothea Crosby Lewis and four other children.

In another room at the hospital the mayor's father, William D. Lewis, 75, lies dangerously ill, and news of his son's death has been withheld from him.

Lady Mountbatten Must Quit U. S.

PHILADELPHIA, July 18 (AP)—Lady Iris Mountbatten, cousin of Great Britain's King George VI, must leave the U. S. by Sept. 1 because she violated her visitor's permit—taking a job.

The Bureau of Immigration and Naturalization announces it had denied renewal of the visa "because she engaged in compensatory work contrary to the terms of her papers."

In New York, where she was arrested early this week on charges of cashing worthless checks totaling about $185, Lady Mountbatten could not be reached for comment.

The bad check charge, made by a Washington, D. C., dress store owner, was dropped after the complainant said "the amount involved had been paid."

Elizabeth, Philip May Wed Quietly

LONDON, July 18 (INS)—Britain's economic crisis may deprive Princess Elizabeth and Lt. Philip Mountbatten of the traditional royal wedding at Westminster Abbey.

Court circles said today a more simple ceremony at St. George's Chapel, Windsor, probably will take its place.

They said an elaborate London wedding would cost too much for these hard times, waste scarce lumber in the construction of stands and cause production losses through declaring of a public holiday.

$2 Billion Terminal in Pay Claims Paid to 9 Million

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) —The government announced it has settled more than $2,000,000,000 of terminal leave pay claims of 9,160,000 former servicemen. It said that only six weeks remain for filing such claims.

A joint Treasury-War-Navy announcement estimated that 1,916,000 servicemen are still eligible for pay claims because of unused terminal leave time. The period for filing claims expires at midnight Aug. 31.

Home Garden Forum

By FOSTER H. WEISS

Head of the Vegetable Gardening Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School

Q—What is the best variety of spinach to plant now?

A—One of the best of the regular types of spinach is Summer Savoy, but if your soil is light I would suggest Swiss chard for summer greens. Spinach does not do well during hot days.

Q—Can oak leaf lettuce be cut more than once?

A—Oak leaf is a loose leaf lettuce that can be harvested best by picking the outside larger leaves first while the center grows. In this way you can get a number of pickings before it sends up a seed stalk. Make a second planting to get a continuous supply. As the first planting gets older the flavor may become strong.

Q—Is it advisable to set late celery in a trench?

A—Some growers do set their celery in a trench, but this does not mean that the heart should be covered. The only advantage of setting celery in a trench if you have a deep soil, is that later it can be banked with soil more easily. Level culture is probably best for most gardeners.

Q—I notice that our squash and pumpkins wilted during a hot day, but were all right next morning. Is this the borer?

A—A little too early for borer symptoms. This is just a natural way for the plant to conserve moisture during the hot part of the day. It is a good idea to start dusting for borer control now, as the adults will soon be laying eggs.

DOG WINS IN DOUBLE-TALK

LOS ANGELES, July 18 (AP) —After a brief telephonic conversation with a lost dog, Bernard Iner thought he had located his missing terrier.

Iner had advertised the pup's loss, and Vic Thomas, cab company manager who had found a dog, called Iner.

"I'll put the dog on the phone," Thomas volunteered.

"Hello," said Iner tentatively.

"Woof," said the dog positively.

"That's my dog," said Iner. "I'll be out to get him."

But he found out the animal wasn't his fox terrier at all, but a Scottie, which goes to show you can't believe anything a dog tells you on the telephone.

Scott's FIRST FASHIONS FOR WOMEN WINTER ST.

Woman Found Choked on Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 18 (AP)—The body of an auburn-haired woman, who the coroner's office said had been identified as Mrs. Marion Davidson Newton, 36, of Vancouver, B. C., was found near the northern limits of San Diego city today.

First police reports said marks on the woman's throat indicated she had been strangled. The body was sprawled in a clump of bushes at the top of an ocean cliff. The coroner said the woman's husband operated the Corona hotel at Vancouver. He had not been located here.

The woman was fully clothed but her dress was torn and disarrayed.

It was the ninth in a series of feminine slayings in southern California this year, starting with the mutilation murder of "The Black Dahlia," Elizabeth Short, last Jan. 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward W. Robbins of San Diego discovered the body while hiking along the cliffs near Torrey Pines Lodge, just north of La Jolla.

They told police the woman appeared to have been dragged from the nearby highway.

Reds Plot 3d Party to Run Wallace for the Presidency

By HOWARD RUSHMORE

Special to the Boston American

NEW YORK, July 17—The Communist campaign being plotted by top leaders of the Red Fascist organization to run Henry A. Wallace as a "third party" presidential candidate in 1948 will be conducted by the pro-Red Progressive Citizens of America, it was learned today.

At a secret meeting of the Communist party's national committee, it was agreed the Red Fascists would throw the entire weight of their various unions and front groups behind Wallace, but that the PCA would serve as the sounding board for the campaign.

The Communists also depend on the left-wing section of the CIO's Political Action Committee to aid the drive, but at the secret meeting warned that many CIO unions would not permit a "united front" with the Communists.

However, the Progressive Citizens offer no such barrier to the Red Fascist program, and it is through this group that the Communist party will launch its Wallace campaign early this fall.

The PCA, organized last December by the Amalgamation of the National Citizens Political Action committee and the Independent Committee of the Arts, Sciences and Professions, has veteran fellow travelers and Communist sympathizers or supporters in practically every executive post.

By actual count, 22 officers of PCA are listed by Congress as sponsors or members of a total of 400 Communist "front" organizations.

Senate Group OK's St. Lawrence River Bill

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP)—The Senate foreign relations committee approved by a vote of 9 to 4 today legislation authorizing the vast St. Lawrence seaway and power project.

The committee's decision thus makes certain the long controversial issue, involving expenditure of an estimated half billion dollars, will go to the Senate next year for action.

DOE DONE

SPRINGFIELD, July 18—A sleek doe invaded the Main st. department store section today and was swivel-hipping triumphantly through traffic when she was killed by the same kind of curiosity that killed the cat.

Near Walnut st., at the Elks Club, she skidded to a halt and stared unbelievingly at a metal figure of an elk outside.

John J. Smith, Lancaster st., couldn't stop his automobile in time. The game warden was notified.

Brothers in Girl Attack Face Jury

Two Somerville brothers were held for the grand jury today after pleading not guilty and waiving examination in Somerville court to charges growing out of an attempted criminal attack last night on 18-year-old Phyllis McCauley in the bedroom of her Broadway home.

Elmer V. Ward, 23, of Broadway, East Somerville, charged with the attempted attack and with assault on Patrolman James F. Holmes, was held in $2000 by Judge Charles F. Gadsby.

His brother, Elwood, also of East Broadway, was charged with attempting to rescue a prisoner from a police officer.

The court was told the McCauley girl awoke to find a hand over her mouth and hear the warning, "Keep quiet if you know what is good for you."

to the delegates for action tomorrow. The fight for favorable action on both resolutions was led in the resolutions committee by Joseph Walsh, World Wara II veteran and commander of Newton Post 48.

John N. Barnby, State vice-commander, presided at today's activities in the absence of State Dept. Comdr. Lawrence Quigley, who has been in ill-health for some time.

Meanwhile, the split between Congressional Medal of Honor Winner Jake W. Lindsey, Lexington, and state officers of the American Legion was widened when a spokesman for the Massachusetts Dept. accused Lindsey of indifference toward Legion activities.

Coleman C. Curran, West Roxbury, State adjutant for the past 10 years and unopposed for another term, replied to Lindsey, who first brought the controversy into the open on the convention floor in Symphony Hall. Curran said today the matter was closed as far as the State Dept. was concerned.

The young war hero, who recently gave up a lucrative post with the Veterans' Administration to re-enlist in the Army as a sergeant, told the delegates he would not seek election to any office in the State Dept. of the Legion.

Lindsey based his withdrawal on a "slight"—being omitted from the list of State officers who had hotel rooms reserved for them at the convention as is customary. He topped the ticket a year ago for vice-commander and was expected to be re-elected easily for another term at this convention.

Off-Season Deer Dinner Charge by Buckley Rapped

State Auditor Thomas J. Buckley was given a verbal wrist-slapping today by James F. Power, state director of the Division of Fisheries and Game, who described the auditor's charge that he entertained 60 sportsmen at a dinner of illegally-killed deer as 'pretty small potatoes."

Power told the Boston American over the telephone from his summer home in Sagamore: "If, after a complete audit of my department, Buckley has to draw on the ghosts of three innocent deer who were probably killed by nothing more illegal than an automobile, I'm very much surprised."

Buckley, in his report on the affairs of the department, said the venison was served at a Hotel Statler dinner last December given by Power for members of a fish and game league.

"At a dinner of sportsmen," Power countered, "where the conversation dwelt exclusively on fish and wildlife, what did Buckley expect me to serve—cold cuts?"

The illegally killed deer, Buckley insisted in his audit, should have been turned over to the nearest state or public institution.

In answer to a further challenge by the auditor that $610.83 was spent for various items for which there were no specific provisions, Power simply said all expenditures were perfectly justified and were made in the best interest of the department.

Malden Man Fined, Chided For Fighting Out of Class

"You were out of your class. He's a heavyweight. You're a paperweight. Stick to your class."

This was the advice Lynn District Judge Ralph W. Reeve handed out today—along with a $10 fine—to Vincent Carsosimo, 37, of Malden. The heavyweight, Robert Contant, 28, of Wakefield, also was fined $10. Both were adjudged guilty of assault and battery on each other.

Yacht Blast Jury to View 2 Key Exhibits

SANTA ANA, Cal., July 18 (AP)—Two candy "red hots" and three tiny screws have become very big exhibits in the trial of Louise Overell, 18, and her college sweetheart, George (Bud) Gollum, charged with murdering her wealthy parents.

Prosecutor Eugene Williams contends that "red hots," two of which were found in Gollum's automobile, also were discovered in a leather jacket which several witnesses have testified the 21-year-old premedical student was wearing March 15 when Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Overell died before or during a dynamite explosion aboard their yacht in Newport harbor.

Ray Pinker, Los Angeles police chemist, told the grand jury which indicted the heiress and Gollum that a microscopic examination of the coat revealed human blood-stains. He is a key State witness, due to take the stand next week.

The screws, Sheriff's Criminologist Tom McGaff told the trial jury yesterday, also were found in Gollum's coupe. The prosecution said it planned to establish that the screws are parts of an alarm clock of standard make, identical with that which witnesses said they found wired to a battery and dynamite sticks in the engine room of the Overell yacht, the Mary E.

stuffing, surprising as that may seem.

One black wool suit features the Evangeline circular skirt. The longer jacket is finished with a double row of giant welts from the collarless cardigan effect neckline, down the front and around the longer jacket hemline.

For her suits, Carnegie uses provincial handwoven tweed, soft finish broadcloth, and various other tweed weaves.

The Carnegie coat never depends upon the obvious for a look of luxury. The look comes rather from the expert tailoring that gives the coat the same subtle silhouette as her suits and dresses. The cut is always different, even in the famous Carnegie indispensable which this season is longer with intricate welting detail and huge rhinestone buttons fastening high at the large, round, turnback collar. Another Carnegie indispensable is a navy chinchilla wool with a double "milliner's fold" collar and the back repeating this same treatment.

With the war restrictions on skirts now happily behind us, this designer again presents her divine gowns for those most glamorous occasions of the nightlife butterfly. Portrait gowns reappear in all their grandeur with Rembrandt decolletage, yet now in teeing with lowered bodice released at the hipline with soft "milliner's fold." Again let me say that this "milliner's fold" predominates every type costume in the collection from simple day suits, to dressy suits, to day frocks and the evening scene. It is a very important and new look that has a tremendous fashion future and promotional possibilities.

From the two huge and beautiful tapestries which adorn the walls of Miss Carnegie's Fifth ave. salon, tapestry colors of the French and Flemish renaissance, were the colors for her collection taken.

Deep rich dark brown, a sophisticated navy darkened for fall wear, a vibrant soft green of the pine trees, an aristocratic blue with purple tone, a silvery gray much used in paint and tapestries, a beautiful shade of brown with a touch of mahogany, brilliant clear red, anjou-brown and light cocoa blended together, coppery, brownish red and many woodland colors . . . these are the artist's palette from which Miss Carnegie took her collection color theme.

To complete the picture, Miss Carnegie's jewelry must be given mention. She launches semi-precious stones for the coming season. A lovely galaxy of color assimilated in an elongated necklace which she features repeatedly. A Carnegie gold fantasy for the new season is a series of arrow-shaped darts that can be fastened on the necklace, shoulder, or sleeve or anywhere fancy pleases.

Although the pearl choker still remains as probably the most popularly accepted style, Miss Carnegie feels confident that the long draped necklace will soon supplant it. She favors them in a series of multi-strands either knotted or unknotted. She also shows a series of designs with back interests, and says the new draped silhouettes make this a positive must.

Lupescu Better, Wedding Illegal

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 18 (AP)—Mme. Elena Lupescu was reported completely out of danger from her critical illness of secondary anemia today while the petition for her "in extremis" marriage to former King Carol of Romania stil awaited action of a local marriage court.

Court officials said the marriage of the former king and his companion of the past 23 years could not be considered legal because their Romanian divorces had not been recognized in Brazil and because Mme. Lupescu's recovery invalidated the "in extremis" ceremony, performed when it was thought she was dying.

20 BILLIONS IN RAT HOLE

REPRESENTATIVE EVERETT DIRKSEN, of Illinois, a member of the House appropriations committee, observes that the postwar American program of loans and gifts to foreign countries has worked out like pouring money down a rat hole, insofar as the enhancement of world peace is concerned.

More than twenty billion dollars has been expended by the United States in the last two years in this manner—including private contributions as well as government appropriations—without improving the prospects of world peace.

In fact, says Representative Dirksen, as of today:

"The foreign situation is more nebulous and uncertain than ever before.

"While we have freely shared our assets and supplies with foreign countries, our efforts have been met with one frustration after another and today peace is no nearer a reality than on VJ Day."

With monotonous regularity, all of the international conferences called to consider the rehabilitation of Europe—the basic purpose of American assistance—have disintegrated on the rocks of Russian rejection of the vital conditions of European recovery, those conditions being respect for the sovereignty of the nations involved and the restoration to them of economic self-sufficiency.

Some eight or nine European nations, all of which had previously received varying but substantial degrees of American assistance, were subsequently absorbed into the Russian hegemony as satellites, and thus entirely deprived of sovereignty and economic independence.

With few if any exceptions, the remaining nations of Europe—all of which have had American assistance in the past and most of which are still getting it—are confronted by the same menacing prospect.

The net result, as Mr. Dirksen grimly notes, is that:

"While we dole out more and more billions of American assets, petty tyrants and dictators continue to enslave their people, make a mockery of the very freedom for which thousands of American servicemen died, take their cues from the Kremlin and refuse to co-operate."

Consequently, with respect to continuance of the American policy of foreign loans and gifts, there is general agreement with Representative Dirksen in Congress and among the American people that:

With more than twenty billion dollars already down the European rat hole, much of it enriching Soviet Russia with callous disregard of the destitute and despairing people the United States has sought to assist, it is high time indeed as Representative Dirksen urges for reconsideration of the whole matter of American loans and gifts to foreign governments.

IT'S STRICTLY GI

MASSACHUSETTS' National Guard will hardly indulge in the ballyhoo of two cents the pound "bounty" that Illinois offers guardsmen recruiters for new enlistees. Something, however, must be done to implement the Bay State recruiting campaign that sees the Yankee Division, now on field duty at Camp Edwards on Cape Cod, with a little more than one-third of its full divisional strength.

Other states have been less successful than Massachusetts. Several have abandoned summer camps and resorted to instruction at summer schools. Consequently an extraordinary campaign to increase enlistments in every State in the Union will be started in August. It is hoped that the thousands of potential prospects in Massachusetts will thereby become informed of the attractive activities of the National Guard. This service requires only one night a week and two weeks of summer field duty—all strictly GI. And the time required represents just so much idleness to the many who would prof[illegible] so highly by the service.

He that loves a rosy cheek
Or a coral lip admires,
Or from star-like eyes doth seek
Fuel to maintain his fires;
As old Time makes these decay
So his flames must waste away.
But a smooth and steadfast mind,
Gentle thoughts and calm desires
Hearts with equal love combined
Kindle never dying fires.

KEEP THE SUGGESTION ABOVE in mind, young fellow, before you rush into marriage with an "oomph girl" type. Endeavor to ascertain if in addition to her "oomph" she has intelligence and is a sympathetic girl with a sense of humor. Such is the advice of our Horses & Women experts.

PASSING BY—Willie Howard. Whimsical singing comedian. This year he celebrates his 50th anniversary on the stage, started in vaudeville in 1897 at Proctor's 125th st., Manhattan. Willie is still going very strong and is currently starred at Lou Walters Latin Quarter night club . . . Juan Pedro Artigas, Champion jockey of Argentina, came here to ride in the International Cup race. When reporters asked his weight, Juan said: "53 kilos con sobretodo." Translated that means: "116 pounds, with overcoat." A man's clothes when he is wearing an overcoat usually weigh around 10 pounds. Therefore, Juan's riding weight must be about 106.

Willie Howard

NOTE IT STATED Mrs. Howard Neiman, of Brooklyn, has been a customer of the same department store for 50 years. Very interesting. But it is not a record for long patronage. Libby's Restaurant, in downtown Manhattan, had a customer who ate three meals a day there for 60 years!

SIDELIGHTS — One out of every seven workers in the United States earns his living in the automotive or related industries . . . Dr. William F. G. Heise and his five sons are all practicing physicians in Winona, Minn. Six physicians in one family all practicing at the same time sounds like a world record. But Brooklyn and California have not yet been heard from . . . Players in the All-American Girls Professional Baseball League are paid from $50 to $85 a week. Understand this league is looking for talent. Have you a daughter who can play shortstop?

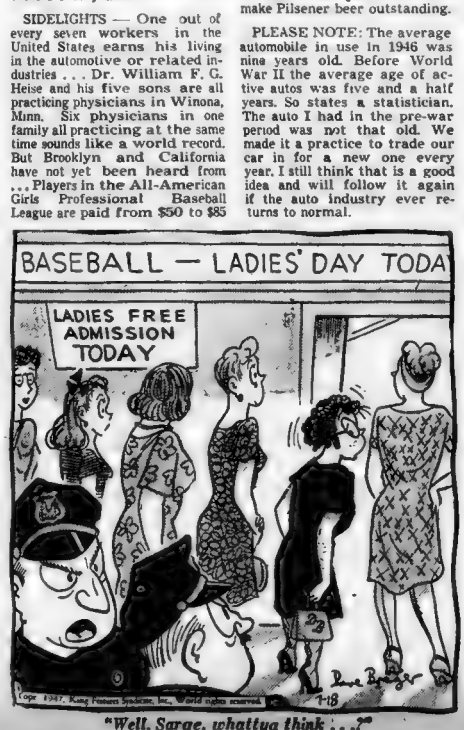
HORSES & WOMEN — An Atlanta, Ga., judge, during the course of a recent trial, spoke at length on the suffering of a man who has a nagging wife. In London, Eng., a man shot his wife whose nagging he said was "driving him crazy." The judge at the subsequent trial was so sympathetic as to the suffering this husband had endured from the nagging of his wife that he only sentenced him to two years. That nagging soon turns a little blue heaven into a hell on earth cannot be denied. But even though a member of the Husbands' Protective Association I must be fair. Nagging is not an exclusively feminine trait. There are nagging husbands, too. In their lengthly speeches the judges aforementioned seem to have overlooked that fact.

ASKING—Queries From Clients. Q—Do you agree jai alai is the fastest game in the world? A—I don't. I believe ice hockey is a faster game. But it takes more skill and stamina to play jai alai. Q—Who introduced the song "I'm Just Wild About Harry," and when? A—Believe that was one of the hit numbers of an all-Negro musical, "Shuffle Along," produced around 1921. I think Florence Mills introduced it, but wouldn't bet any stogies on that.

ASIDES—The average hotel maid in Manhattan cleans 16 rooms a day. When you consider that each of these rooms also has a bathroom which must be cleaned, that is quite a day's work . . . Am asked if I have a reader in Midnight, Miss. None I know of. Never heard of that town. Would look it up but I have misplaced my road map of Mississippi.

PROSIT—Pilsener beer is flowing again in Manhattan. The breweries in Czechoslovakia brewing this beer are now up to 85 per cent of their prewar production. So if you are a Pilsener enthusiast, happy days for you are here again. It is the water near Pilsen, the hops of Saaz and secret brewing methods over 1000 years old that make Pilsener beer outstanding.

PLEASE NOTE: The average automobile in use in 1946 was nine years old. Before World War II the average age of active autos was five and a half years. So states a statistician. The auto I had in the pre-war period was not that old. We made it a practice to trade our car in for a new one every year. I still think that is a good idea and will follow it again if the auto industry ever returns to normal.



"Well, Sarge, whattya think . . .?"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1947, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.

NEW YORK, July 18—You may call him a screwball, but if you will listen to me you may realize how wrong you are in underrating Henry Wallace. You will realize that although he has babbled for several years he has never revealed his ultimate plan.

Westbrook Pegler

People called Hitler a screwball, too. Huey Long was regarded as a clown. They and Henry had a great deal in common and one trait which I think they shared is a capacity for mass cruelty, an indifference to slaughter as an incident on humanity's way to various objectives. I think Henry's goal is the development of a perfect race in a world state without personal ownership of anything, a race from which the divisions created by nature will have been obliterated by miscegenation and the objectors and the unfit and unworthy will have been obliterated by hecatombs the like of which the world has never yet seen.

YOU WILL NOTICE that Henry has not said a word about his association with old Prof. Nicholas Roerich, the Russian prophet who was God Almighty to his devotees. You will notice that he has never discussed his implication in Roerich's activities. I called at his office twice in one day but his secretary said he was putting the hot licks on an important speech and couldn't see me.

I telephoned to ask for an appointment. I said I wanted to confront him with photographs of those goofy Guru letters which someone wrote to Roerich in a hand which has been declared by three of our most noted experts to be identical with Henry's own. Nothing ever came of these attempts but I tell you this, that Henry will never dare submit to an examination concerning not only those particular letters but the activities and pretensions of his old Guru and occult, mystical and divine powers which were ascribed to Roerich.

WAY LAST WINTER, when I was just beginning to pick my way into this, I perceived indistinctly that this Oriental school was planning a holocaust to hasten the arrival of the survivors, meaning the elect, of the human race at some sublime state. Communism, in the Moscovite sense of the word, would be a mere whistling point on the way to this destination, but it would be on the route, nevertheless. That is why the Communists are ready to go along with Henry that far and perhaps further. Meanwhile and immediately, our taxes would be raised to 100 per cent of our earnings and production so that the capitalist system would be destroyed and the disaster hurried. Isn't Henry's proposal of practically unlimited gifts to Russia and the rest of the world consistent with that?

I have here a small book called "Leaves of Morya's Garden" which contains the key to old Roerich's philosophy and intentions. This is a very rare book and mysterious. The copy in the New York Public Library is mutilated. Several pages have been cut from the front of it so that it starts on Page 9.

After trying several shops which deal in Oriental and other esoteric stuff, I got a copy from a friend who got it from Louis L. Horch several years ago. Horch you will recall as a former disciple of Roerich who testified that the faithful adored him as their God just as the followers of Father Divine, the Negro preacher, worship him.

THE LIBRARY CARD says this book, "Leaves of Morya's Garden," was translated from the Russian by Horch. The inside of the cover contains a notation suggesting that a member of Horch's family gave the book to the library. Horch has said that the first page was removed because the only printing on it said, "Into the New Russia, My First Message." But I observe also that there remains no writing to reveal Horch's connection with the book.

Nowhere is the publisher of this book identified. A flyleaf contains the notation, "Special Translation Copyright 1923," but the person or company to whom the copyright was issued is not named.

INASMUCH as this is supposed to be very fine poetry and old Roerich was as vain as a Broadway columnist, it seems mighty strange that he is not named as the author in the remaining pages. However, in the catalog it is listed as his work. And the fact that certain pages have been cut out of both copies leads me to suspect that the person who did the mutilating simarily censored all the copies he could lay hands on and for some ulterior purpose more serious than mere sheepishness at being connected with this busi-

After this introduction I will soon leap into the message of the book. Then let us see whether you agree with me that it projects a holocaust and a bloody revolution to sweep the whole world on a pretext of spirituality.

Hollywood

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 18—The most exciting film purchase of the week is the life story of Babe Ruth which has been bought from the King of Swat for $150,000 by Steve Broidy of Allied Artists. Roy Del Ruth will produce and our own Bob Considine will write the script. Also Considine's biography of the Babe, to be published later by E. P. Dutton, has been purchased by Allied Artists.

It's interesting that Babe may receive $400,000 in all, for he gets a percentage as well as a flat payment. All the places where Babe played ball and made history with his spectacular home runs will be visited and will be used in the film, which is to cost well over a million dollars.

THE FUSS that a certain southern tobacco family may or may not raise about filming "Written on the Wind" hasn't scairt Jack Warner from buying another tobacco dynasty story, "Bright Leaf." He bought it right from the manuscript.

J. L. (no relation to LSMFT) plans to make this into a production on a par with "The Fountainhead," so it must be some stuff. There's a story and a half back of the writing of this manuscript which is not yet in book form.

Foster Fitzsimmons, the author, has been working on it since 1939 and expects to turn it over to the publishers, Rinehart & Co., next year. When Mr. Fitzsimmons isn't steaming on his novel he is—by turns—an associate professor of the drama at North Carolina+University and also a Ted Shawn dancer. Some guy.

NOT LONG AGO I said "The Persian Cat" had been bought for Lauren Bacall. Then came talk that she might not make another picture. Well, "The Persian Cat" is now up for discussion with George Bruce set to write the script. George has signed a long term contract with Warners and will later produce as well as write. He had a hand in "Fiesta" at MGM—"Navy Blue and Gold" was his, "The Crowd Roars," and many other successes.

Lauren Bacall

Baby has said she would only work when Bogey was working and she seems completely indifferent whether she does or not, but I have an idea she will do "The Persian Cat," since it was bought for her

HERE'S MORE good news about John Hubbard who regained his eyesight after being totally blind for four years. John, who was in the army, had an infection. Now that he's back, he will be starred at P.R.C. in an original story by George Slavin which will be built entirely on Hubbard's own experience in regaining his sight. The morale for other GI's similarly afflicted should be very good.

Hubbard is eager to make this picture because he feels he can help people who have been discouraged over their handicaps.

EDGAR BERGEN, who laughed out loud when he saw himself on the screen as the amorous mortician in "I Remember Mama," told me a funny story about his daughter, Candy, age one and a half.

"When she saw the old man on a billboard advertised Grandad whisky, she shrieked, 'Dada, Dada.' Then when she saw a picture of Mahatma Gandhi in a magazine, again she clapped her hands and called, 'Dada, Dada!'

"Now I know how I look to Candy," said Edgar.. "Every man with a bald head reminds her of me."

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Everything Sonja Henie touches seems to turn to gold. Why, even in her backyard at her ranch at Oceanside, oil was discovered a few days ago.

"What will you do with all that money?" Michael North, who is one of Sonja's favorite boy friends, asked her.

"Oh, I'll just buy more diamonds," answered Sonja.

Well, we can't say that everything has poured into Sonja's lap, because she's really worked hard for what she's got, and she's had brains enough to save her money.

Benay Venuta and Armand Deutsch have apparently settled all their domestic problems beautifully. She is in "My Sister Eileen" at Laguna and her husband has not only given in to her about having a career, but he commutes to Laguna where she has taken a house for herself and the children.

At the opening night he gave her a big supper party and sent her enough orchids to fill a shop. At the first night were Al Hall, who directed the movie, and Joe Fields, who directed the stage play; Bette Davis and others.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD collected at random: Frank Fay will be the guest of honor at a party Charley Foy is having. Frank has donated a building for a church in Brentwood, and he will see it for the first time.

The very pretty girl with George Sanders at the King's was Margaret Jackson. Wonder when George goes to Europe.

Eve Arden and her estranged husband, Ned Bergen, were together the other evening when he picked her up after a broadcast, and friends are hopeful it may mean a reconciliation.

Eve Arden

Adele Jergens and Ross Hunter a good looking dinner duet at the Brown Derby.

It was bound to happen. A new hamburger palace has opened on Sunset blvd. called "The Flying Saucer."

Leslie Fenton and Edna Morgan at a table for two at Ciro's, sat just a few feet from Fenton's ex, Ann Dvorak, who was there to see her fiance, Igor Dega, dance.

Ann Miller and David May a dinner duo at the Sportsman's Lodge. David is certainly having himself a good time these days.

Peggy Cleary gave herself a cocktail party at the Talk of the Town. Sally Eilers, Mrs. Bob Cobb and many others accepted her hospitality.

Bette Davis will do just a bit in "The Patriots" after she finishes her first picture, "Winter Meeting." It was her suggestion. Warners grabbed at it.

This is certainly strange. Parkyakarkus received a package of food from Athens, Greece, with a note saying it was reported in Greece that Americans are starving. Sounds to me like some Russian propaganda.

Carole Landis, who married a husband in England during the war, and then unmarried him after the war, goes there in August for a personal appearance tour. She will also talk over a picture offer and may stay to do one film.

There's an attraction for Dorothy Ford, glamazon beauty, in San Francisco, and he's an airline executive.

Dorothy McGuire and John Swope celebrated their fourth anniversary Thursday.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Boston After Dark

E. M. LOEW IS ONE OF THE BIG stockholders in the Foxboro trotting horse track, now building . . . Paul Bowser is another . . . Once a bus boy and waiter, Loew now owns and operates a score of movie theaters, one legitimate theater, part of the Latin Quarter in New York and the Latin Quarter in Miami . . . Friends regard him as uncannily expert in choosing investments . . . A lavish musical revue, "Artists and Models," was backed by Loew to the tune of $150,000 . . . Its failure marked the Boston theaterman's first investing bloomer, the same friends say . . Work is progressing on the Foxboro track, incidentally, but nothing short of a miracle job of construction is needed to get the harness-horse oval in shape for September or October . . . Narragansett was built in six weeks, it will be recalled . . . But materials were easier to get in 1935.

FOR THE BENEFIT of investors in the Foxboro plant, the newly-opened Lincoln Downs and the many stockholders in Suffolk Downs, we are able today to publish some interesting percentages which show the trend in racetrack betting . . . Suffolk Downs this meeting is selling 50 per cent more mutuel tickets each day as in the 1946 second meeting . . . Although 50 per cent more tickets are necessary to handle it, the gross take through the "iron men" for 1947 is averaging about 12 per cent less than last year . . . The explanation: In 1946, 11 per cent of the mutuels handle came from the sale of $100 tickets . . . This year, only four per cent of the gross volume comes through the $100 wickets . . . In 1946, only 20 per cent of the handle came from the sale of $2 tickets . . . This year, 30 per cent of the take comes from the $2 tickets.

SPEAKING OF percentages, liquor business analysts say that the ratio of beer drinkers to hard liquor drinkers in Greater Boston this year has changed more radically than in any single year in memory . . . Whereas the beer drinkers were a 30 per cent minority last year, this year they are quaffing 70 per cent of the total volume of sales and the hard liquor drinkers are only 30 per cent strong . . . The experts say that the drinking population has not changed materially. They have simply switched from booze to beer—in great numbers.

WHEN YOU PLAY A GAME of chance or skill at an amusement park in Massachusetts, you may be sure that you are not running up against a "joint with a gaff," that is a game that is fixed with a gimmick so that the public's chances of winning anything are nearly nil . . . In this state, these amusement park games are on the level . . . The operators, of course, have the edge, or percentage, but the strength of this edge is not more than 40 per cent, and sometimes not as much as that . . . The reason is that Commissioner of Public Safety John F. Stokes big boss of the State Police) is perhaps the best informed officer in the country on carnival games and rackets.

THE PUBLIC can thank Comr. Stokes for keeping out of this state the newest novelties in the carnival racket . . . The cute little squealing baby pigs now being used to separate the suckers from their money in New York and New Jersey are not going to do their stuff here . . . Most popular of the newer carnival "stores," the little innocent-looking little porkers are highly trained to go through doors which won't cost their owners prizes or money . . . The same goes for the "mice and the hole game" . . . In this neat little grift, the customer wins if a mouse enters certain holes in the floor of a cage . . . But the mouse hardly ever enters the payoff holes (unless he should fall through) . . . When he pokes his nose into the money holes, he is met by a blast of compressed air . . . Air is invisible . . . And it makes it more attractive for Mr. Mouse to pop through the hole which will cost his owner nothing in prizes if a tasty tidbit of cheese is kept out of public sight, but within range of the mouse's acute sense of smell. But not in Massachusetts.

NEW YORK, July 18—There used to be a well-worn Hollywood axiom that child stars would do well to save their pennies furiously because they had so few years ahead in which to stock their piggy banks . . . Maybe it was true at one time, but certainly it isn't any longer, for many of the glamor-pusses of today were the glamor-kittens of yesterday, just as successful as adults as they were as children . . . Certainly age hasn't withered nor custom staled the infinite variety of Mitzi Green, who still has all the socko showbusiness talent she owned as a child — plus curves. Bonita Granville has blossomed from a winsome baby into a winning babe, with gratifying box-office results. Shirley Temple and Deanna Durbin adorn as many marquees today as they ever did, and Roddy McDowall, one-time moppet, has doffed his pantywaists for Shakespearian sock and buskin. Jean Darling, Jackie Cooper, Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland are others who are still making a fine living in show business after all these long, long years.

Mitzi Green

Well, I never did understand why the public should tire of watching genuine talent, whether the dispenser thereof is eight or 72.

Washington Scene

WASHINGTON, July 18—I would not want you to get the idea that the members' lobby of the House of Representatives is a rendezvous of unbridled license or a lover's lane of clandestine trysts, but a congressman was caught hugging a congresswoman in its shadowy recesses the other day.

The titillating episode might have remained a chamber secret but for two things: (1) Witnesses included several newspaper ladies; (2) The gentleman in the case was the dashingly-handsome John Davis Lodge, of Connecticut, who used to play romantic roles in the movies.

The newspaper ladies cannot bear to see Rep. Lodge kiss others of their sex, so they couldn't wait to run out and blab. And in their most catty manner, they identified the lady as none other than the queenly Rep. Katharine Price Collier St. George, of New York.

I HATE TO SPOIL a good romantic story, being just a wallower in maudlin sentiment myself, but the newspaper ladies can't make any romance out of this. Mrs. St. George did not melt into the arms of Rep. Lodge. She was grabbed. And I do not mean that Mr. Lodge suddenly and uncontrollably was overcome with desire. The embrace was prompted by admiration, not passion.

So there can be no possibility of misapprehension, let me say that no one takes liberties with Mrs. St. George. She is one of the greatest towers of matronly respectability ever to sit in Congress.

How the hugging came to pass was thus:

Mrs. St. George, who is 51, emerged from the House floor with Rep. Lodge. He began joshing her mildly for having signed a petition to bring the Townsend Old Age Pension plan out openly in Congress. The lady from Tuxedo Park then proceeded to deliver the 44-year-old ex-actor a lecture.

"I am not asking how you feel about the Townsend plan," she said. "Because you may not have given it thought one way or the other. But in many circles it is believed to be a racket, perpetuated by a few who grab money from the old folks and bring them to Washington each year to put on a demonstration.

"If it is a racket it should be exposed as such. The only way is to bring it out in the open; thresh it out on the floor of the House, and settle it once for all."

"Here! Here!" cried Mr. Lodge—and gave her a hug.

EXPLAINED Mrs. St. George: "He was simply overcome by my eloquence."

Note to Mrs. Francesca Lodge, the beautiful, but frequently firm, wife of the Congressman from Connecticut: Relax!

Incidentally Congresswoman St. George maintains perfect composure at all times. A while back, freshman Rep. E. A. Mitchell of Indiana attempted a little male gallantry by assuring her she did not look 51.

Replied Mrs. St. George, without turning a hair of her carefully-coiffured blonde head: "I try not to."

WE WERE SITTING on the front porch of Sen. Brien McMahon of Connecticut, admiring the sunset and also a couple of luscious blondes named respectively Mrs. Brien McMahon and Miss Mary Benton Gore, when the talk got around to the uncompromising attitude of Russia.

Mr. Howard Doyle, U. S. attorney for the southern district of Illinois, asked if we had heard of the time Stalin and Molotov were conferring in the Kremlin when a telephone call came in for the latter.

Molotov picked up the receiver and listened. He confined his end of the conversation to monosyllables.

"No," he grunted. "No no— no—no—no—yes—no—no ."

Finally he put the receiver down. Stalin asked who was calling and Molotov said it was Truman.

"Humph!" returned Stalin, suspiciously. "What did you say yes to?" "He asked me if I could hear him."

THE other day Mr. Tom Ferris phoned all the way from Miami Beach, where he publicizes sand, sunshine and other attractions, to ask if I had heard about the big Red scare down there. I asked for facts.

"Why," replied Mr. Ferris, "I fell asleep on the sand and got a bad sunburn and was run off the beach for having pink tendencies."

State's Crop Outlook Now Above Average

Massachusetts can expect above average harvests for all principal crops except corn, a joint survey of the U. S. and State Depts. of Agriculture reported today.

Best crop prospects were for hay, peaches and pears, and next to them were apple, potato, tobacco and oats yields, the report said.

Rainy weather delayed corn planting and the crop is estimated at 39 bushels per acre compared to 43 bushels last year.

Serve Cookies as Dessert

By MARTHA LEE, Household Editor

"COOKIES FOR DESSERT" should be a popular slogan for summer months. With a full cookie jar, or a roll or two of cookie dough tucked in the refrigerator for slicing and baking as needed, homemakers are snugly prepared for any occasion, come picnic or polite party.

Refrigerator cookies are so easy to make that the youngsters may be "permitted" to mix and bake them themselves. Even dad might enjoy a sense of culinary accomplishment by taking a few slices of cookie dough and taking fresh cookies from the oven a few minutes later, crisp, hot and delicious.

RIBBON COOKIES

1½ cups sifted enriched flour
1 tsp. baking powder
¼ tsp. salt ½ tsp. vanilla
½ cup sugar 1 egg, beaten
1 ounce square unsweetened chocolate ½ cup shortening

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add vanilla and egg. Add flour mixture to creamed mixture. Divide dough in two parts, and add melted chocolate to one of the parts. Pat dough in alternate layers (chocolate, then vanilla, then chocolate) into small rectangular pan which has been lined with wax paper. Cover with wax paper or bowl cover and set into refrigerator to chill until firm. Cut into ⅛ inch slices. Bake on ungreased cookie sheet in moderately hot oven (400 deg. F.) 6 to 8 minutes. Makes about 42 cookies.

RAINBOW PINWHEEL

1½ cups enriched flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 egg, beaten 1 tbsp. milk
½ tsp. salt ½ cup shortening
½ cup sugar 1 tsp. vanilla
Red coloring ½ cup chopped nuts

Sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cream together shortening and sugar until light and fluffy. Add egg, milk and vanilla extract. Mix well. Add red coloring to ⅓ of dough, mixing well. Carnegie Curved Silhouette

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

NEW YORK, July 18—How beautiful can a dress get? The late Gertrude Stein, specialist in blank prose, would have said, a dress is a dress is a dress. But Hattie Carnegie, originator of ultra fashionable elegance, says a dress is a woman in a picture.

Last season Hattie Carnegie introduced the "silhouette curvaceous" which outlawed the unnatural, poured-in, unfeminine look and brought back the God-given charms of ladylike curves gently rounded shoulders, gently moulded waist, gently shaped hips. It was something new and in definite defiance of the square-shouldered pinch-waist, slinky-hipped fashion figure of that day.

Because a too abrupt change is never a lasting mode, merely a fad, she didn't rush her clientele into looking drastically different, but nursed them along with the silhouette curvaceous into a genuine fondness and willingness to return to the most feminine of feminine silhouettes, the supremely rounded contour.

After six months of campaigning for this "silhouette curvaceous," Miss Carnegie feels the American woman is now ready for the rounded look in its entirety and at last night's showing of her fabulously beautiful collection, presented the "curvaceous curved silhouette."

There is a day and night difference between the Carnegie curved silhouette and the padded figures sponsored by other designers. Her clothes look not as though they had been draped upon a woman, but as though a woman wanted to look this new look.

For this dramatic curved silhouette the Carnegie waist minimizer makes its appearance. It is a minute corselet that laces to give the figure a fluid, firm and moulded look from the bodice to the upper hipline.

It is a nifty little satin affair, about 10 inches deep, which helps a woman achieve a trim, fashionable look and a confidence in her new silhouette. Bluntly speaking, it helps to eliminate the rubber tire around the middle and smooth the midriff. This "hypnotizer" controls the curved silhouette. Your own hips, however full, will produce the same smooth effect.

A significant detail of the entire new Carnegie collection is the constant use of "milliner's folds," an overlay of fabric generally softly manipulated. They appear in suits, coats, day and evening dresses. They outline hems, they detail bosoms, shoulders, cupines.

It is interesting to note, incidentally, that such a great play upon "milliner's folds" should be featured by this gown designer. For it must be remembered that her first love in the fashion world was millinery and that her first shop was a milliner's shop. She, of all dress designers today, should have complete understanding of "milliner's folds" and that is undoubtedly why they have such charm used in so many versatile ways in her new collection.

From such a borrowed detail are great designer clothes given the added distinction of elegance, ingenuity and imagination. These are the inspired touches which stamp a clothes collection as creative.

With true understanding of an individual woman's problem, Miss Carnegie does not subscribe to anything definite in skirt lengths which will fit every woman. Generally speaking, she follows these measurements: Day length, 14 inches; cocktail length, 12 inches; evening length, 8 inches, or floor length. But she is quick to add that all measurements must be modified and corrected to suit the individual.

So don't grab yourself an unbecoming length because somebody arbitrarily says it should be so and so many inches from the floor. Let the mirror be your best guide.

Most emphatically playing up the Carnegie Curved Silhouette are gay little frocks committed to the Dresden doll outline and they are sweethearts of the collection. Evangeline, and the maidens of Acadia, cherished their tiny Dresden dolls, dressed in lovely taffetas and brocades with the complete femininity of the ladies of the French court, and these Carnegie frocks have all their charms. With almost a lilt to their movement, these dresses emphasize everything desirable about a woman, her youthfulness, her coquetry and her feminine charms.

The bosom line is soft and curved, sometimes subtly achieved by delicate shirring. The midriff is molded gently from below the bosom to the top hipline in the same silhouette as the famous "waist minimizer." Baby bonnet ruchings of buckram or taffeta round under the lower hipline, giving a slightly protruding look, yet it is so skillfully manipulated that it tends not to give a wide look, but a lovely, rounded hipline.

A highlight of the dressy Dresden type is a pure silk rustling taffeta frock that billows out on the sides, has a wonderful swishing movement. A corselet bodice and sweetheart neckline is faced with luscious Carnegie pink.

By using luxurious fabrics, Miss Carnegie achieves a different look in her dey dresses, no matter how casual, how easy to wear. For these dresses she uses sheer wools, soft jerseys, sleek crepes to which she adds such details as jeweled buttons, unusual braid and velvet trim.

This season the Carnegie suits have a definitely new and thoroughly charming look. Hips are completely rounded, gently protruding, achieved by the cut of the fabric and a minimum of buckram. Shoulders are extremely rounded, no padding at all in evidence, its use held to an absolute minimum.

Jackets are definitely longer, extending well below the hip. Skirts have amazing fullness, although with never a sign of bulkiness. Simply a whirling voluminosity that is purposeful and beguilingly feminine.

The Carnegie "Evangeline" suits feature a longer, moulded, trim jacket, gently hugging the waist with a projecting jacket hipline that does not touch the skirt.

The model removed the camouflage which made the jacket protrude from the hipline to show the contrast in silhouette and the effect was not nearly so appealing as with the hip

Evangeline Suit Makes Bow for Fall

"EVANGELINE SUIT" by Hattie Carnegie . . . pure, prim and pretty in the midst of such drastic fall fashion changes . . . has the longer jacket with an extra-curved look because of its circular welting. In pastoral green wool . . . the five-buttoned jacket has an individual quarter-tab collar. Here is rich elegance for fall smartness.

BARREL-JACKET . . . another new line that has the Monte-Sano manifestation of cut and design . . . hugs the hips but is full above . . . giving the elliptical look which means you are supposed to look broad from side to side for fall. This one done in a Forstmann fleece in Chinese red has wonderful pockets to catch attention.

A STEP BACKWARD is always a step forward in the fashion world . . . and while this strange-to-the-eye new length dinner costume from Ben Reig's fall and winter collection is reminiscent of the past . . . it definitely bespeaks the future. In sheer black woolen . . . the trim jacket is lined with pink crepe and fastens with crystal-buttoned gold arrows. Underneath is a sleeveless black crepe sweater blouse finely pleated and cross-stitched to cling closely. The pleated skirt is stitched on the reverse side. Well, well!

Smart Set Waban Girl's Bridal

By BETTY ALDEN

LOUISE PENHALLOW of Waban, voted most beautiful girl in her class at Beaver Country Day, will become the bride of Dr. Chilton Crane of Richmond, member of the staff of Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, tomorrow afternoon. The couple met at the hospital where Louise has been active in the volunteer service for the past few years.

They will be married at Morning Face, summer home of the groom's parents, Rev. and Mrs. William M. Crane, in the Berkshire Hills. Rev. Crane will officiate.

Louise Penhallow

Louise is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sherburne Penhallow and a member of the Junior League. She made her debut in 1942. Her cousin, Mrs. Richard C. Harrison, will be matron of honor and the flower girls Deborah and Gail Graves. Gordon Crane, the groom's brother, will be best man.

MR. AND MRS. EDWARD F. MAHONY (Patricia Eames) of Chestnut st., are married a month today. And by way of celebration their pictures appear in the much talked of article about Boston published this week in a national magazine.

There is no caption identifying the young couple in the color photograph at the Ritz Bar but we recognized them and called Pat to verify our identification. When you look at the picture here's who you see—Ed and Pat, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Gabel (Eleanor Minot), Nina Robb, who was one of Pat's bridesmaids, and Bud Wicks, all social registerites.

"That was a wonderful party," Pat recalls. "It was just after we announced our engagement and I was living at the Ritz at the time. The hotel invited us to pose for Art Griffin and gave us a party with all the trimmings such as champagne, imported caviar at $3.50 a throw and a luscious steak dinner."

The newlyweds are living at their Chestnut st. apartment this summer while Ed attends Harvard and they alternate week-ends between his family's place at Cataumet and her mother's at Tuftonboro Neck, N. H.

Beginning today Pat's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. James J. Curry, are having a house party at their place on Lake Winnipesaukee to christen their new speed boat. Pat and Ed are going as well as Mr. and Mrs. Walter Sutter and Mrs. Mildred Lemmon of Beacon st. The Currys are having a large buffet supper tomorrow night for their neighbors around the lakeside.

NOTES FROM a Society Editor's 'Cuff: Mr. and Mrs. Charles Winkler of Acorn st. and Marion gave a small dinner party at the Copley Plaza Oval Room this week, their guests including Mr. and Mrs. Emlyn V. Mitchell, Alice Lee Bradlee and Gretchen Winkler. The ladies had all come from Marion for the day to do volunteer service at Children's Hospital where Mrs. Winkler directs the out-patient department cafeteria.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cross of Needham and daughter Jane are vacationing this week at Snow Inn, Harwichport. Mrs. Paul Breakell of Waban and her little girl Susan, who is two years old today, are visiting friends at Point Independence.

Miss Deborah Perkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Perkins of Elm Farm, East Boxford, joins the ranks of future brides with announcement of her engagement to Frederick L. Robinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Robinson of Marblehead.

Arrivals of U. S. Grains Raise Reich Bread Ration

BERLIN, July 18 (AP)—The steady flow of grain imports from the U. S. into the Anglo-American zones of Germany since May has built up food stocks sufficient to increase the normal consumers' bread ration, an Anglo-American announcement said today.

The normal consumer has been authorized an additional 800 grams of bread per week, giving him a total of 7000 grams of bread per four-week ration period as compared to the official ration goal of 10,000 grams. (One gram equals .035 ounces.)

Right Powder for Summer

ALMOST AS EXCITING as the new change in a fashion season is the change of appearance by means of new cosmetics. Just as wrong as wearing a winter felt with billowing organdy is the idea of using the same makeup when the sun is shining its brightest.

One of our famous cosmetic houses has made a special study of these seasonal variations and has come up with a gamut of delightful summer shades presented in an attractive plastic package which slips easily into your handbag. Priced at $1.50 . . . it includes an introductory size box of their justly famous powder . . . perfumed with their famous individual fragrances . . . and harmonizing shades of dry rouge and lipstick, in a handy tandem clip.

We can do without much . . . but no woman can do without powder. The switch is gradual, of course . . . and the makeup you use on your face should blend . . . especially when you wear an evening gown . . . with your neck, shoulders and back. So don't jump right in with a rich, deep shade . . . lovely as they are . . . try a lighter shade of powder until you're a golden-brown all over. Also if you don't tan . . . and your skin becomes a lobster-red . . . we suggest you use one of the lighter shades to tone it down.

If you are a redhead or a blonde . . . whose skin is fair with a faint rosy tinge to it . . . use this company's exotic "gitane" powder. But if your skin borders ever so slightly on the sallow . . . the pinkish, olive glow of "tamale" is loveller. But if you are desirous of creating an illusion of a tan without so much as a 20-minute session with Old Sol . . . let me suggest "cafe creme" . . . a deep suntan powder shade that's a luscious tone for day and evening.—R. M.

For the name of this summer-shaded face powder . . . and the complete package . . . phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, daily except week-end, or write to Ruth Muggiebee, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

New Crawford Film at Met

Joan Crawford, who has been wallowing in tragedy, lo, these many pictures, has a field day of it in "Possessed," the new Warners' picture now on the Metropolitan screen.

My betters have probably rated it "adult dramatic fare." To this journeymen film-reporter, "Possessed" is a depressing sortie into the pale world of impending insanity. It is not this moviegoer's idea of entertainment but it could be a morbid lure to boxoffice grosses.

Briefly Miss Crawford personates a frustrated woman who is driven into madness by a guilt-obsessed mind.

As a footloose, romancing engineer, Van Heflin achieves a credible if not sharp portrayal. Raymond Massey's husband is an excellently performed but not rewarding performance.

Miss Crawford's study in insanity is, it must be admitted, a fine thespian job but, from me to you, a gruesome idea of entertainment. The clinical approach completely destroys any melodramatic suspense buildup the boys had in mind.

Geraldie Brooks, screen newcomer who plays Massey's daughter whom Heflin desires to marry, shows genuine promise.

This Warners' release is a Jerry Wald production, directed by Curtis Bernhardt. Silvia Richards and Ranald MacDougall wrote the script from an original Rita Weiman story.

Gertrude Lawrence In New Cape Play

Richard Aldrich by special arrangement with John Golden, will present Gertrude Lawrence in the American premiere of W. P. Lipscomb's play, "Lady Fitzherbert," at the Cape Playhouse, Dennis on Cape Cod, the week beginning Aug. 4.

The period play, which deals with the Prince of Wales, son of George III, who falls in love with Lady Fitzherbert, has been held by Golden for more than a year as his pet vehicle for Miss Lawrence, who recently completed a tour in "Pygmalion." Carl Esmond will appear as the Prince of Wales, Bramwell Fletcher as Richard Brinsley Sheridan and Norah Howard as Miss Pigot.

Sydney Greenstreet Steals 'Hucksters' Acting Honors

By PEGGY DOYLE

"The Hucksters," Metro's fantastically huckstered film version of the radio-ribbing best-seller, is now on the way to successful runs at Loew's State and Orpheum theaters.

The book has been cleaned up . . . that is, the wife of the overseas' colonel is now a general's widow, who, desolated by a two-day absence from Clark Gable, planes from New York to the Coast to join him.

Since the general's widow is impersonated by Deborah Kerr, who makes her a charming, thoroughbred mother completely devoted to her two children, her passionate pilgrimage to Hollywood and Gable is hardly reconcilable with her way of life.

Gable and Miss Kerr (which, as the ads advise, rhymes with star) indulge in some very effective clinches, win you with their good looks and charm.

But, nevertheless and notwithstanding the fortune MGM paid to import Miss Kerr from England and to sign Gable on the dotted line, this is the roundman's picture and we mean Sydney Greenstreet.

His Evan Llewellyn Evans, radio tycoon to end all radio tycoons, is a masterpiece of satire although, confidentially, it is rumored that he is an all-wool-and-a-yard-wide reality in the air waves industry.

Another first-rate portrayal is Adolphe Menjou's agency executive with ulcers and top contracts.

Ava Gardner's torch-singer, Keenan Wynn's radio comic and Edward Arnold's talent agent are outstanding performances.

As indicated, all of them may be prettier, but it's the roundman's picture.

Jane Cowl Plays Role Despite Laryngitis

Jane Cowl completely recovered from the attack of laryngitis with which she had been suffering since Tuesday's opening of "The First Mrs. Fraser," has been playing to capacity audiences in Alumnae Hall on the Wellesley College campus. Despite a bad throat, Miss Cowl played every performance of the Wellesley Summer Theater production, the first of the first college-sponsored professional summer theater-school in the United States.

Memorial Film New Musical Hit

With knowing showmanship, George Jessel has cooked up another musical hit in "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now," a sure-fire blend of Technicolor, show business and gaslit song hits now luring the customers into the Keith Memorial.

The story is based on the producer's own reminiscences of the Broadway of his precocious boyhood when he was appearing in the old Maryland Theater in Baltimore. His idol then was Joseph E. Howard, vaudeville headliner-composer-singer, who wrote the song that gives the Jessel production its title and 500 others.

June Haver, who co-starred with Betty Grable in Jessel's first filmusical hit, "The Dolly Sisters," is co-starred with Mark Stevens, who plays Howard. She is at her best in three stunning stage production numbers.

Despite the standout musical sequence, director Lloyd Bacon, usually involved in more serious drama, has succeeded in underscoring the love story and the human elements, which doubtless is precisely why Jessel selected him in preference to a strictly musical comedy megaphoner.

The script is concerned more or less with Howard's early days, tracing his rise from an obscure Weehawken organ salesroom to the production of a chick musical show. When Lenore Aubert, as a Continental chanteuse, elopes with another man, Howard walks out on his success. But Reginald Gardner, a clever playwright, hangs on to his interests including Miss Haver, and she and the singer-composer are reunited to give her a chance to shine in three smash production numbers.

Gripping Drama at Boston

"They Won't Believe Me"—don't confuse that title with a song title—is a familiar enough triangle but there is nothing ordinary or routine about the intensely suspenseful way it builds to its ironic climax.

Indubitably, it is not a pretty story the new RKO Boston screen unreels. Frankly, "They Won't Believe Me" is a sordid tale, with an insidious theme and a way of inviting sympathy for its leading character, a charming wastrel, that is hardly according to Hoyle, Hayes or Johnson. But in its way it is a powerful sermon.

The story opens and closes in a courtroom, where a man is on trial for murder. Called to the witnes stand, he takes you back to the beginnings of his evil, wasted life. Robert Young, who plays him, is superb, seeming to disintegrate before your eyes as the horror of his recital hits him for the first time, appalls him.

There is his marriage to Rita Johnson, whom he hadn't realized he'd married solely for her money. It is a decadent thing, this marriage he pictures for the jury. Learning of his seemingly innocent friendship with Jane Greer, his wife bribes him to break it up with the gift of a stock brokerage partnership in Los Angeles.

The provocative Susan Hayward turns up there and another illicit affair is secretly carried on until his wife learns of it, breaks it up, hurries him off to a ranch.

The affair is resumed when Young, back in Los Angeles, encounters Miss Hayward. This time, though, there is what Columnist Dorothy Kilgallen laughingly calls Reno-in-the-beano. En-route there is an accident and Miss Hayward is killed. Returning home intending to kill his wife, Young discovers she has committed suicide. The final courtroom scene provides an ironic twist.

An all-around skilful job, "They Won't Believe Me" is an example of top-o'-the-mark skill in the matter of Irving Pichel's direction, Joan Harrison's direction, Roy Webb's unusual score, Jonathan Latimer's script and performance by the entire cast.

Census Bureau May Collect Data on Fats

WASHINGTON, July 18 (AP) —Data on production and processing of fats and oils would be collected by the census bureau under a bill passed today by the Senate and sent to the house.

Sen. Hawkes (R) of New Jersey obtained Senate approval after explaining that statistics were collected during the war on fats and oils but since have been on a voluntary basis.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN, MON., JULY 18, 1947

Illegal Charity, Or, Backstage in The Irish Sweeps

By AUSTEN LAKE

TODAY'S MAIL BRINGS ME A LITTLE BROWN book of Irish Sweeps tickets—twelve colored counterfoils priced at ten shillings each. The enclosed letter says I have been recommended as a confidential agent, though with no obligations whatever to buy or sell the book and return the stubs, with equivalent cash, to be credited to the underlying Dublin address.

A million or more of such books are being distributed elsewhere around the U. S. A., to similar "confidential agents," presumably sportsmen who sell the tissue paper dream stuff at the standard price. By late August we will be reading front page accounts of how some local janitor or charlady has become rich beyong imagination.

The sweeps books which flood America four times each year and siphon close to $25,000,000 annually into the Irish Hospital pool, come from a rose brick building at No. 3 O'Connell st., which Dubliners call the "Mare's nest" and where Paddy Fleming, the old jail breaker during the Black & Tan trouble, wholesales heart flutters.

NO. 3 IS THE U. S. DIVISION of the Sweeps and Paddy is the regional director, who mails ticket supplies to his ghostly brokers and supervises hundreds of girls who sit at long tables and unshuck cash and checks from tons of American envelopes. I visited him there.

Eight hours a day, six days a week throughout the year, the girls split paper gullets and scoop out the cash contents, entering the name of each ticket buyer in the big ledgers which lie at their elbows. There is no talking. A strict rule of silence is enforced lest the girls garble their accounts and deny some worthy investor his rightful chance when, later the big nickeled boiler whirls at the Lord Mayor's manse and some pretty Dublin deb thrusts her arm through a trap door and pulls out the lucky coupons.

So the only sound in the room at No. 3 is the shuffling of thumbs, the scratch of recording pens and the footfalls of lady cash collectors as they move along the aisles and gather the funds in wire baskets.

Paddy himself is a tall, competent and pleasant-faced man of middle age who sits in a glass-panelled office where his blue eyes catch a full view of the outside office. Into this office, closely guarded by uniformed guards mysterious men come and go—men whose missions and names are known only to Paddy himself. For Paddy is the secret center whence circulates contraband to a country he has never seen and who handles large fortunes for a beneficent and Christian kind of racket.

Paddy was suspicious when I sent in my card some time ago. He came out on the balls of his feet with a narrow squint and an uncompromising angle to his jaw until I said, "Erskine Childers sent me." "Come in" said Paddy, for the name of Childers is open sesame in Dublin.

There was a large, morocco-bound volume in his safe which, he said, contained the names and addresses of hundreds of thousands of Sweeps agents in America, men and women who peddled his counterfoils for profit or as a favor to friends. It was, he thought, the most efficient secret society in the world, composed of persons who operate discreetly and believed in the charitable worth of their merchandise.

HIS AMERICAN AGENTS, HE SAID, are divided into two groups—the individual retailer who deals in one or a few books, and the broker who recommends trustworthy vendors, but handles no tickets or money. There are sliding scales of reward, he said—two free tickets to the individual sales folk on each book and cash credits to the brocker. Mostly, he said, the brokers take their commissions in counterfoils and the hope of winning the rainbow gold, so that little cash pay is sent back at any time.

In the early beginning, he said, the Sweeps directors had sent over missionaries to find trusted agents, but they had made only a few trips before his office was deluged with demands for ticketbooks and the list had grown to a huge army.

Indeed, said Paddy, it is a simple system, in which defaulting agents can only cheat their own customers, because no counterfoils are credited until the money is received in the Dublin office and only those so received ever find their way into the Lord Mayor's boiler. Turning in his chair he pointed through the glass partition to the tables where the girls were working and said, "Notice that the moment a girl opens an envelope she checks the cash, enters the name and number in her book, then immediately writes a receipt to be mailed back to the buyer."

What Paddy told me was not confidential. But later, on examining some of the U. S. envelopes, I noticed that they were not mailed to O'Connell st., but to a variety of addresses within Dublin County and outlying towns. Reason, said Paddy, was that U. S. postal authorities are familiar with his office location, so his agents were given constantly shifting spots to which they can send their remittances safely. It seemed, I said, a strangely clandestine system for so worthy a purpose, and Fleming agreed ruefully.

"For," said he, "every penny above operation cost goes into the Hospital Trust and we have a theft-proof auditing system." The fund has dwindled during the war years, but there is about $400 to care for every Irish man, women and child, if they can get sick that much.

Herman Brings His Bucs To Wigwam for Night Game

By FRED HOEY

Billy Herman and his hapless Pittsburgh Pirates will be in town tonight to clash with the Braves under the arc lights. Despite their lowly position, these Pirates have a good team to watch. Notably Greenberg, one of baseball's very finest characters, Elbie Fletcher, Danny Gustine and the Great Ralph Kiner, who has 65 RBIs to trail Johnny Mize of the Giants by only four runs. Gustine is hitting a robust .321 to trail the league-leading Harry Walker of the Phils.

Herman has nominated Kirby Higbe (5-8) for mound duty while Billy Southworth will shoot Billy Voiselle (2-2).

The more we see of those St. Louis Cards the more we are convinced that this is the team in the National League.

They have fine pitching and a sturdy defense. Those double plays they repeatedly pull keep their pitchers out of considerable trouble.

A pitcher like Warren Spahn or Johnny Sain of the Braves might give them a lot of trouble, but in the long run class will count as folks who saw the Cards waltz to 2-1 advantage in the series that ended last night will attest.

Harry Brecheen was his old self in there with his old mystery stuff. Yet smart Eddie Dyer, Cards' manager, was taking no chances after that homer by Bob Elliott to deadlock the game and he called in Howie Pollett. The Braves used Red Barrett, Clyde Shoun and Si Johnson.

The Braves dropped the game, 5-2, but they made nine hits off the combined deliveries of Brecheen and Pollet. On the other hand, the Braves came up with three very costly errors.

Brecheen's sudden departure was not caused by ineffectiveness. He was hit on the pitching hand by a sharply hit bounder back through the box.

Hearst N. E. Junior Next

If they do as well as they did at the Worcester Country Club, Jackie Nies of United Shoe, the new state champion, and Bob "Bucky" Marchese, Country Club of Springfield, the runner up, will be the finalists in the Hearst New England Junior championship which will start one week from Monday at the Woodland Golf Club.

The Hearst New England draw which was made last Sunday has Nies in the first quarter and Marchese in the fourth.

A year ago, Nies and Marchese met in the second round of the Hearst at Woodland. They had a ding-dong battle for 19 holes before the Springfield boy took the decision.

Yesterday, in the finals of the MGA state junior classic, Nies squared accounts with Marchese by a 1 up victory. So Nies and Marchese are "all flat" after playing 37 holes in Hearst and state junior championships.

So the state junior championship is back at the United Shoe Golf Club after a lapse of 22 years.

Now that the "state" crown has been won by Nies, the Hearst qualifiers will start priming their games for the New England juniors.

Baksi Gets Return With Swede in N. Y.

LONDON, July 18 (AP)—Joe Baksi, the Kulpmont, Pa., heavyweight, has signed a contract for a return bout with Sweden's Olle Tandberg in New York this year, Lew Burston, European representative of the Twentieth Century Sporting Club, announced today.

The deal was closed before Baksi, who lost a decision to Tandberg earlier this month in Stockholm, departed for New York today aboard the liner America.

The date of the bout depends on Tandberg, who first wants to meet British heavyweight champion Bruck Woodcock for the European title.

Burston also said Marcel Cerdan, highly-regarded French middleweight, was returning to the United States in early August.

Mae Murray Wins 3d Vermont Golf Title

RUTLAND, Vt., July 18 (AP) Defending champion Mae Murray of Rutland made it three times in succession today when she won the Vermont women's golf title at the 17th hole in the final match with Mrs. Stanely Neptune of Barre, 2 and 1.

Miss Murray first won the crown in 1941 at the age of 15 and again in 1946, after a five-year wartime lapse of the event.

In the consolation event, Mrs Lydia Walker of Brattleboro defeated Mrs. Belle Todd of Rutland

Woburn Golf Tourney Scheduled for Aug. 7-8

The City of Woburn will stage a golf tournament at the Woburn Country Club Aug. 7-8. There will be three divisions within the 13 to 25 bracket.

Pro-tournament instruction will be given to anyone who enters by two leading New England pros. Instruction dates are July 24, 25, 31 and Aug. 1 at The Country Club.

Elliot Hot and Cold

Bob Elliott had the second St. Louis inning all to himself. He came up with a swell gloved-hand stop off Marty Marion, then started a double play around the horn on Harry Brecheen, getting Joe Garagiola at second and "The Cat" at first. But Elliott didn't look so hot in the first when he hit into a double play on a 3-1 pitch.

John Quinn has announced that the Braves and Yankees meet in the annual major league game at Cooperstown, N. Y., July 21. The dedication ceremony will be held at 11 a. m., with luncheon at noon and the game at 2 p. m. . . . The New England States Limited will make a special stop at Fort Plains, N. Y., at 8:50 to pick up the Braves who play a double-header with the Chicago Cubs the following day.

Twice Buck McCormick snagged grounders down by first that would have made trouble in the third . . . The early innings were sort of dead lines . . . A couple of double plays came up but they were routine . . . The Cards' one run in the fourth was manufactured in a businesslike manner with no one less than Brecheen driving in the big run . . . That play by Pete Schoendienst off Hank Camelli in the fourth was one for the book. Pete had to go behind second and dive for it. He came up with it and got a grand ovation from the huge crowd. One doesn't see play of this superlative nature every day.

It looked for a time as though Artie Gore, very capable umpire from Cambridge, was in for a rhubarb when Garagiola bumped into Frank McCormick as the latter popped a foul ball down the foul line near the plate. There was a question of interference but the ball was outside the line fout, so that saved the situation . . . Tommy Holmes's catch off Schoendienst in the sixth and his subsequent throw doubling up Brecheen at first was a gem for perfection.

Just when the Braves looked as though they might put on a rally, Marion would start a double play. What a fielder he is! . . . They played to 26,736 which raised the Braves' home attendance to 727,146 for 39 dates.

Brecheen didn't work harder in the last World Series against the Red Sox than he did last night. It was hot and humid on the field . . . What an ovation Elliott received when he punched his two-run homer over the left center fence in the seventh. What a ball player this guy is. It was Bob's No. 8 round tripper.

This Is the Time, Place For Sox to Talk Trade

By HERB FINNEGAN

ST. LOUIS, July 18—Was Austen Lake right when he said Cronin was willing to trade Pesky and DiMaggio? So asks a Red Sox rooter via mail. Well, this is the time, this is the place to talk trade.

Time, because there is little to do before watching the Sox and Browns open a four-game series tonight. (Ferriss vs. Zoldak.) Place, because the Browns are the club with which the Sox have been talking trade for two years, with no results.

Yes, Lake was right when he said Cronin was willing to trade Pesky and DiMaggio. Further, it's a good guess to say Cronin would be willing to trade anybody on the Sox with these exceptions: Williams, Doerr, Ferriss, Johnson, Tebbetts and Mele.

Wanna know something? Last year, 1946 that is, while the Red Sox were out front early in May and were pennant-bound, this trade failed of completion by a whisker: Hughson, Pesky and Pellagrini for shortstop Stephens and pitcher Kramer. And this spring, 1947 that is, a second attempt at a Pesky-Stephens trade even up failed of a whisker.

In 1946, Stephens was so confident the trade had gone through he visited the Red Sox in the Chase hotel, shook hands all around and was ready to ask for a room when he was notified Luke Sewell balked on the trade.

Cronin has been sweet on Stephens for a long, long time. He's only 26, younger than Pesky and can make plays afield Pesky can't approach. In '44 he led the league in RBI with 109. In 1945 he led the league in home runs with 24, and if he had been playing at Fenway Park he probably would have hit 44. He's a dead pull hitter and would supply the infield punch missing since Foxx and Tabor were hitting home runs.

Pesky isn't Cronin's ideal shortstop. If so, he never would have shifted him to third earlier in the season and used Pellagrini at short. At the time Cronin said: "Pellagrini can make plays with any shortstop in the league," and he included Boudreau. There is room for debate on that point but you can deduce he likes Pelly better afield than Pesky. And there is no question who has the better arm.

Kramer is 29, two years younger than Hughson. He won 17 games in '44 when the Browns won the pennant, and he whipped the Cards in the world series. He's on the brink of greatness, and he'd be a 20-game winner with a club that could get him some runs. Last year he whipped the Red Sox three times.

As matters stand, it would have been a smart trade had it been completed. Here is Hughson pitching with an arm so sore it might drop off any minute, while Kramer is winning quite regularly with a club that is 26 games behind the Yanks, a club that drew only 489 customers to a recent game. Little incentive there.

Mele, early season sensation, took a nosedive at bat when he was placed No. 4 ahead of York, Doerr and DiMaggio. It put a lot of pressure on the 24-year-old lad whose only minor league experience was at Scranton (class A) last year. However, every manager in the league has a good word for Sam. He has great natural ability and he plays centerfield better than he does right. The three hits he got off Lefty Lopat in the first game at Chicago yesterday may help restore his confidence. Cronin has an ace-in-the hole, too, in Bill Goodman, who is hitting hard for Louisville.

But because Cronin is willing to trade doesn't necessarily mean he'll clean house. After all, a manager doesn't trade for the sake of trading. He wants to improve his club. And for a club that won the league title last year, these Red Sox can stand a lot of improving, especially in aggressiveness. They did, however, show signs of it in Chicago.

22 Yachts Ready For Marblehead To Halifax Race

A fleet of 22 sturdy cruising yachts are ready to sail tomorrow in resumption of the 365-mile ocean race to Halifax, N. S., after a war-time lapse of the deep water classic since 1939.

Too much is unpredictable in yacht racing to permit selection of favorites, but the presence of Alar, the 45-foot sloop of David J. Bailey, Greenwich, Ct., did not go without notice. Bailey last month sailed Alar to victory in the 466 mile race from Newport, R. I., to Annapolis, Md.

Among the 22 entries are three representatives of the Royal Noval Scotia Yacht Squadron of Halifax, co-sponsors with the Boston Yacht Club of the Down East contest.

One of these J. C. MacKeen's 50-foot schooner Eskasoni, competed in the last sailing of the classic in 1939. Many of the others are veterans of long ocean races, including Mustang, the 45-foot cutter of Roderick Stephens, Jr., New York yacht designer and well known for his part in defense of the America's cup.

BOBBY LOCKE PLANS WEST COAST TOUR

TORONTO, July 18 (AP)—Bobby Locke, the South African golfing star, said he plans to go to the Canadian and U. S. west coast the second week in September for a series of four or five exhibition matches.

Stan Leonard and Fred Wood, Vancouver pros playing in the Canadian Open here, will play with Locke and they may be joined either by Lew Worsham, U. S. Open champion, or Ellsworth Vines of Los Angeles, a former U. S. Davis Cup tennis player, also in the present tournament.

Sox Show Signs of Life Taking Pair

ST. LOUIS, July 18—Sox showed definite signs of life in Thursday's twin bill in Chicago. After winning 4-1 behind Dobson, they overcame a 3-0 lead to whip the White Sox, 6-3, in 11 innings in the nightcap. The game seemed lost with one out in the ninth, Sox trailing 3-1. Then Doerr, with Moses on board, hit his second home run of the week to tie the game. His previous homer beat Don Black, 1-0, in Cleveland.

Doerr's homer wouldn't have tied it, however, if Caldwell had thought fast in the White Sox eighth. Tucker had home stolen with two out but Caldwell for some reason bunted and ruined the play . . . So it went into the 11th. Williams singled, his first hit of the game. Doerr sacrificed. DiMag was walked to get Jones. Jones fanned but Tebbetts singled for one run, and Johnson made victory certain by doubling home DiMag and Tebbetts . . . Johnson got credit for the victory and deserved it . . . Last time out he made three hits and had an RBI as he beat Detroit 2-0 . . . Sox have won 10 of 12 from Chicago.

Bob Gillespie had held the Red Sox to one hit up to the eighth—a double in the fourth by Pesky. With two out in the eighth he lost his stuff. Jones, Tebbetts and pinch-hitter Ferriss singled successfully for a run. Dente walked to fill the bases, and it looked like a big inning. But 100-hit Pesky hit back to the pitcher. That the Sox could come back to win after that let-down is a feather in their cap. They haven't shown much combative spirit heretofore . . . Dente went hitless in ten ab's stretching his string to 14, and dropped from .314 to .245 . . . Harry Dorish lasted only five frames and was trailing 3-0 when he left. Whereas his record was 4-1, it is now 5-8, and Louisville is beckoning . . . Twin victories gave the Sox a 6-4 record on the trip but they can't gain on the Yanks.

Dobson's 4-1 victory over Lopat was his first complete game in six starts since June 21. It was his 10th win of the season against five defeats. Three of those wins have been over the White Sox, and he started and finished all three games. "Arm felt good all the way until the last play of the game," old Tuckey Neck said, Kolloway bunted down the third base line on that play, and Joe had to make the long throw to first and get it there in a hurry. "It twinged on that play," said Joe.

Chicago fans are riding York, just as Detroiters did before he joined the Red Sox. The Indians went hitless all day. He was hitting .243 when he left the Red Sox, has slumped to .220. What made matters worse, Jones enjoyed a good series . . . Ted Williams found Lopat harder to hit than old man Ruffing. He fanned with two on in the third, popped to short with two on in the fifth and fouled to catcher with Pesky on third in the seventh. With Lee on the mound in the ninth, Williams singled off Appling's glove. He went hitless until the eleventh in the nightcap and dropped four points. Pesky made three hits off Lopat and Lee, boosting his BA to .300 and his total to 99 . . . He reached the 100 hit mark in the fourth of the nightcap . . . Mele also got three hits, his best day at bat in a month. He tripled to the right field corner in the first, singled crisply to left in the third and beat out an infield hit in the fifth. He sacrificed and walked for a perfect day. He pinchhit for Klinger in the ninth of the nightcap and almost decapitated Maltzberger.

Yankees Tie A. L. Victory Record; Chase Marks Set by N. L. Clubs

The Yankees' merciless victory march over the prostrate forms of their American League foes had even the rival National League clubs jittery today, according to the Associated Press. With 19 straight victories under their belts and a half share in the American League consecutive win record, the murderous Bronx Bombers are looking beyond the prospect of gaining undisputed possession of the loop's record.

The pennant-hungry Yanks are casting covetous glances at the only winning streaks exceeding theirs—the 21 straight by the 1935 Cubs and the major league record of 26 polled by the Giants in 1916.

The Yanks made it 19 in a row yesterday when they defeated the Cleveland Indians in both ends of a double-header, 3-1 and 7-2, at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium. The double victory enabled them to equal the 41-year-old standard set by the Whitet Sox in 1906. In a way, the Yankees' string is more imposing than thata of the White Sox since Fielder Jones' hitless wonders were held to a tie in beeween those 19 triumphs.

The Yanks defeated every club in the league during their current streak except the Tigers whom they meet in Detroit today. They walloped the Indians five times, the St. Louis Browns and Washington four times each, the Athletics three times, the White Sox twice and Red Sox once. Thirteen of the triumphs came on the road, including 11 on the current western swing. The streak began in the second game of a double-ehader in Washington June 29.

The opener was a special occasion for Bobo Newsom, the much travelled pitcher who finally landed with the Yankees last week after having been with seven other big league clubs. Old Bobo scattered nine hits effectively to register his second straight win a Yankee uniform, his sixth of the season and the 200th of his big league career. He thus joined Cleveland's Mel Harder and the White Sox's Charlie (Red) Ruffing as the only active pitchers with 200 or more big league victories. Harder has won 222 and Ruffing 270. Altogether 53 hurlers have won 200 or more games with Cy Young topping this elite list with 511 major league victories.

Vic Raschi, a 29-year-old right-hander recalled recently from Portland of the Pacific Coast League, doled out six hits in the second game to gain his second victory in a week. Veteran first baseman George McQuinn was the batting star, getting two hits in each game. He supplied Newsom with his most important victory by blasting a two-run hower in the fourth inning.

Yesterday was Cleveland manager Lou Boudreau's 30th birthday, and the only satisfaction he got out of it was seeing his freshman center-fielder, young Dale Mitchell, extend his consecutive hitting streak through 19 games. Boudreau quit his shortstop post after four innings of the second game in favor of Larry Doby, the Negro infielder, who previously had been used at first base. Doby handled three chances cleanly, but failed to hit safely in two times at bat. He struck out as a pinch-hitter in the first game.

The double win enabled the Yanks to maintain their 11¼-game lead over the second-place Tigers. The Bengals came from behind twice to capture both ends of a doubleheader from Washington, 7-5 and 4-3.

After Stan Spence had put the Senators ahead, 5-4, in the opener with a pair of two-run homers off Alton Benton, the Tigers went ahead with two runs in the fourth and added an insurance run on Dick Wakefield's eighth-inning home run. A single by catcher Hal Wagner drove in the tying and wining runs in the last half of the ninth of the nightcap after the Senators had scored two in their half to take the lead.

The Athletics, leading 7-2 gonig into the ninth inning, whacked across nine more runs to trounce the Browns in a night game in St. Louis, 16-2. Henry Thompson, one of the two Negro players signed by the Browns yesterday, played second base and went hitless in four trips to the plate. He committed one of the four Brownie errors, fielding three out of four chances cleanly.

A queen trumped a king on the diamond when Mel Queen, newest pitching member of the Pittsburgh Pirates, won over Clyde King and the Brooklyn Dodgers, 7-1, at Ebbets Field. Queen scattered eight hits for his first victory of the season as the Pirates made it three out of four against Brooklyn, and King was discarded in favor of Hal Gregg after five innings.

Ralph Kiner, Hank Greenberg and Jimmy Bloodworth hit fourth inning homers off King, Kiner's being his 23d which tied the Pittsburgh club record held jointly by himself and Johnny Rizzo. It was No. 15 for Greenberg.

Rain and wet grounds caused the postponement of the scheduled doubleheader between the Cubs and Giants at the Polo Grounds. Cincinnati and the Phils were not scheduled.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By the Associated Press

BATTING: George Kell, Tigers—Made six hits in eight times at bat as the Tigers took both ends of a doubleheader from the Senators, 7-5 and 4-3. He collected a single, double and triple, and stole home with the tie-breaking run in the opener, and hit three singles in the nightcap.

PITCHING: Bobo Newsom, Yankees—Won his second straight in a Yankee uniform and his 200th big league victory since he reached the majors in 1929 by scattering nine hits for a 3-1 win over the Indians in the first game of a doubleheader. He joins Mel Harder of Cleveland and Red Ruffing of the White Sox as the only active pitchers with 200 or more big league triumphs.

Last Chance For Local Sandlotters

By JACK CONWAY, JR.

Tomorrow it the last chance for sandlot baseball players in New England to compete in the Hearst tournament. The last N. E. tryout session will begin at 10 a. m. tomorrow morning at Dilboy Field. The Record-American-Sunday Advertiser tourney at Somerville is being conducted with the aid of Mayor Eddie Bradley and the Somerville recreation commission.

Frank Mahoney, supervisor of recreation, will have close to a dozen members of his staff on hand at Dilboy to help direct the trials.

Claude Davidson, president of the New England Class B Baseball League, will make a special trip down from Lowell to act as director of the workouts.

Charlie Kelley, the assistant director of recreation in Somerville, states that the best instructors in the city will be at the trials.

Some who will be at the Hearst school are: Hugh McCusker, Tom Polumbo, Clem Mackey, Gene Nash, Charlie Mahoney, Frank Murphy, Sol Camitta, and Jim Mooney.

Mooney, by the way, is the son of Charlie Mooney who was one of the most famous of all Western Union operators. Father Charlie, now retired, hopes that he will be able to witness the tryouts.

Davidson, Kelley and the other members of the board will select three Somerville boys to play in the Hearst All-New England sandlot game at Fenway Park on July 29.

The N. E. title game will be played as a co-feature with a Red Sox-Cleveland contest. Joe Cronin will manage one of the sandlot clubs. Lou Boudreau the other.

The board consisting of Cronin, Boudreau, Davidson and Bill Barrett will name the two best ball players from this game to make the seven day trip to New York city for the Hearst National finals at the Polo Grounds on August 13.

Wichita Man Leads In National Snipe Race

Ted Wells, Wichita, Kan., held the lead on points today going into the final round of the National snipe class sailing races off Marblehead.

Wells ran his point total to 5889. Jack Wirt of Miami, Fla., was in second place with 5711.

The winner will represent the United States in international snipe class championships next month at Geneva, Switzerland.

Battling Striper off Plymouth Makes Guadalcanal Vet Nervous

By DARK MONTREAL

My brother, Bill, said: "Six years was a long time to wait for this."

He sat in the stern of Bill Dupree's boat in Plymouth Harbor, rod butt between his knees, rod tip arced, reel singing and line slashing out across the water where a striper boiled in the half darkness 150 feet away.

"What you shivering about?" Bill Dupree asked. "You cold?" "Cold, no!" said Brother Bill. "I'm nervous."

BILL WHITING OF PLYMOUTH
Holds 5½-pound Black Bass

He went into Guadalcanal with the first landing forces, participated in nearly every major Navy action in the Pacific, was at sea nearly six years with never a chance to wet a line. Now, doing something he had long been looking forward to, playing a good fish, he was nervous as a kid. He stayed nervous until, 10 minutes later, he worked the bass alongside and I put the gaff into him.

He weighed 14 pounds. He was the first and largest fish of the night. The three of us took six, missed two. There were some good fish boiling in the darkness when we left and went up-town for coffee. Bill had the fish laid out on the tailboard of the beach wagon and a lot of Plymouth folks stopped to admire them.

"Where'd you get them, Cape Cod Canal?" three persons asked.

Driving home to Hingham I said to Brother Bill: "That goes to show you. Plenty of striped bass in Plymouth harbor but few of the Plymouth anglers fishing for them there. They all go somewhere else. Seems silly."

And next morning in Hingham I met Ace Loud. Ace said: "Boy, you should have fished Hingham harbor last night. We slaughtered them. Right in your backyard. Where were you?"

Well, anyway, it does go to show you!

As pretty a small-mouth black bass as you'd care to see was weighed in Tuesday by Bill Whiting of Plymouth. It tipped the scales at 5½ pounds, 20¼ inches in length, 16 inches in girth, uniformly light green in color as if it had been long over a white sand bottom, as perhaps, it had. Whiting, father of Wes, one of Plymouth's best salt water bass anglers, caught the big fellow in White Island Pond on a small red perch after chumming with live shrimp.

Those stripers we reported on last Sunday as lying along the rocky shore under Gay Head cliffs on the Vineyard, still are there but in somewhat diminished numbers unless new schools have arrived. The islanders have been hitting them, and hard. Police Chief Sim Pinkham took two weighing 24 and 14, Manny Lima four to a top of 32 (lot of 32-pounders reported this year), Howard Andrews an 18-pounder, G. G. Hewlett a 31-pounder. Clayt Hoyle reports seeing one bass make a leap that landed it atop a boulder where it lay a few seconds before flipping off and swimming away.

G. N. Longarini, Boston Italian language newspaper publisher, took a 30-pound striper and two others, 16 and 12, trolling between Billingsgate Island and Brewster from Bob Bacan's "Margaret."

8 in $100,000 Gold Cup

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—Eight thoroughbreds, including two recent importations from South America, were named today for tomorrow's first running of the $100,000 added International Gold Cup at Belmont Park. Endeavour and Ensueno, brought here by plane from Argentina and Brazil, respectively, are the two foreign entries.

Main U. S. hopes in the mile and five-eighths are Assault, currently the world leading money-winner; Stymie, who held the cash-winning title for a week; Gallorette, one of the greatest racing mares of the era; Natchez and Phalanx.

The remaining starter is Richard Ryan's Argentine-bred Talon, which has been on U. S. tracks for some time.

In the draw for post position, Talon drew No. 1, with the remainder of the field following in this order: Assault, Phalanx, Stymie, Gallorette, Natchez, Endeavour and Enseno. The two South American horses will go from outside the starting gate.

Phalanx will carry 110 pounds in the weight for age race with Gallorette assigned 121. All others will tote 126 pounds.

Harold Algaier will ride Talon and the two South American horses will be piloted by jockeys brought from their home countries—Juan Pedro Artigas on Endeavour and Juan Irigoyen on Ensueno. Eddie Arcaro will handle Assault and Ruperto Donoso, a Chilean, will pilot Phalanx.

Eric Guerin is the jockey for Gallorette and Ted Atkinson has the mount on Natchez.

Frank Shannon, official pacemaker for the New York tracks, said that Assault probably would be a 4-to-5 favorite and said the first prices on Stymie, Phalanx and Ensueno would be 5 to 1. He quoted Endeavour at 6 to 1, Gallorette 15 to 1, Natchez 20 to 1 and Talon 40 to 1.

The Empire City-at-Jamaica meeting shifted to the more spacious Belmont plant for its final two days, today's card featuring the Invaders Handicap in which the Gaekwar of Baroda's Diesel, flown here from England especially for this race, opposes nine others.

Mrs. Vare Captures R. I. Women's Golf Tilt

WESTERLY, R. I., July 18 (AP)—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare won the women's invitation golf tournament today by defeating Miss Patricia O'Sullivan, 20 year old Connecticut State champion, 1 up, in their 18-hole final at the Misquamicut Golf Club.

It was a case of experience against youth and determination. The veteran Mrs. Vare, of Marion, Mass., five time national champion, met several stiff recoveries on the part of her 20-year-old opponent.

YOUNG KELLY OPENS DEFENSE OF NATIONAL SCULLING TITLE

DETROIT, July 18 (AP)—Rowing's big two-day National Regatta opened today on the Detroit River with 400 amateur oarsmen on hand to form more than 100 crews in the 27-race program, but all eyes were on young John B. Kelly, Jr., the 20-year-old University of Pennsylvania freshman who recently realized his father's dream by taking the Diamond Sculls at Henley on the Thames.

Fortified with rowing's most prized individual championship, young Kelly is here to defend his National single sculls title won a year ago at Philadelphia.

Joe Angyal of New York, Joe McIntyre of Philadelphia and Theo Dubois of Winnipeg, a former national champion, stood between Kelly and his second straight national title.

Scratch Bares Downs-Lincoln Rift

By BOB WALDO

LINCOLN DOWNS, R. I., July 18 — What could be the prelude to open conflict in the much talked of racing war between Massachusetts and Rhode Island was revealed today when it was stated by H. P. Simpson, trainer of the horse Boston Man, that he was requested to scratch his horse from the sixth Thursday race at Suffolk Downs.

The request was voiced through Allan J. Wilson, president of Suffolk Downs, on behalf of the Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Ass'n, Simpson said.

It was claimed by the executive secretary o the H. B. P. A., Johnnie McDowell, that other horsemen had been denied the privilege of shipping their horses in from Pascoag and Lincoln Downs to race at the East Boston oval, and that the righ to do so should not be granted to Simpson alone.

Simpson had to van his horse, Boston Man, to Suffolk on Wednesday night prior to the race slated yesterday, and entered the horse.

An hour and a half before post time for the race, Simpson was called in and asked to scratch, he said and that after considerable discussion, he yielded to the request.

Wilson assured the trainer that he could remain on the grounds and continue to train his horse for a stake engagement to which Boston Ma alheady has been nominated for two weeks from tomorrow, Simpson said.

Whether the same problem would arise upon this race was still unknown, and it is expected that there will be a meeting of the H. B. P. A. to discuss the problem.

Allan Wilson of Downs Says Scratch "Routine"

Allan Wilson, head of Suffolk Downs, said this afternoon that the scratch of Boston Man from the sixth race yesterday was a routine matter.

Yanks' Keller Under Knife; Out for Year

DETROIT, July 18 (AP)—Manager Bucky Harris of the New York Yankees said today he had been informed by club president Larry MacPhail that outfielder Charles (King Kong) Keller had been operated upon for the removal of a disc from his spine.

Harris said the outfielder, who led the club in home runs when he was sidelined on June 6, probably would be lost to the club for the remainder of the year.

Peres Play Nortons Under Arcs Tonight

A banner semi-pro attraction will be offered local baseball fans tonight, when the Pere Marquette, K. of C., team of South Boston will meet the Nortons of Worcester in a floodlight game at the South Boston Stadium. The game is scheduled to start at 8:30.

The Nortons, during the present season, have won 17 games and lost but four and have defeated such outstanding teams as the House of David, the New York Cubans, and the Hoboes.

Only one team has been able to defeat the Nortons in a series of games, the Hartford Homestead Grays.

1952 Olympic Games May Go to Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES, July 18 (AP)—William May Garland of Los Angeles, for 25 years a member of the International Olympic committee, expressed grave doubt that Finland will be able to stage the 1952 Olympic games and said he would not be surprised if Los Angeles got them.

Garland made his observation at a luncheon in which the local Olympic committee reported on its unsuccessful bid for the games at the recent session in Stockholm, Sweden.

Under-Paid Bank Clerk Gets Mercy

DETROIT, July 18 (AP)—Arthur Alfred Craig, 42, a Commonwealth Bank employe who worked 15 years as a department head at $250 a month, today had a suspended sentence on an embezzlement charge and the bank had a reprimand from Federal Judge Frank A. Picard.

To Craig, who admitted taking $2500 during a two-year period by juggling records, Judge Picard said:

"I'm not condoning you. Stealing is stealing. It is never justified," but, he added:

"The bank informs me you were one of its best men. You worked late hours and appeared to have the bank's interest at heart. A man with your position at the bank has to maintain a certain standing in the community. If they expect you to wear a white shirt at work, they should pay you a white shirt salary."

ROCKY HAILED

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—Rocky Graziano, middleweight boxing champion as a result of his technical knockout of Tony Zale in Chicago Wednesday night, came back today to the neighborhood where he was born and was greeted by more than 500 admirers.

Sidney Moses, city official, in a brief welcoming talk said business men would circulate petitions and get $50,000 signatures asking the athletic commission to reinstate Graziano in New York.

Dons Sign Three New Backfield Candidates

LOS ANGELES, July 18 (AP)—Three new backfield candidates, headed by fullback Pelican Hill, 215-pound Negro fullback from Southern University, have been signed by the Los Angeles Dons of the All-America Football Conference.

The others are John Brisco, a 220-pound, before-the-war high school star here, and Mort Landsberg, formerly of Cornell and the El Toro Marine aggregation.

Constellation Forced Back From R. I. Trip

The U. S. frigate Constellation, famous sister-ship of the equally famous Constitution, left here under tow of a Navy tug today for Newport, R. I., but was forced back by southerly winds which impaired a smooth voyage. The frigate will sail for Newport with favorable weather and remain there indefinitely.

Eagan Hints Rocky Okay in October

NEW YORK, July 18 (AP)—Chairman Eddie Eagan said today the N. Y. Athletic Commission would take no action on the change in ownership of the middleweight boxing title until it is confronted with a situation making a decision necessary.

Rocky Graziano, whose license to box in his home state has been revoked, won the title in Chicago Wednesday night by stopping Tony Zale of Gary, Ind., in six rounds.

Eagan, discussing this bout in advance a week ago, said the commission could take any one of three actions—recognize Graziano, continue to recognize Zale, or declare the title vacant.

The commissioner indicated that Graziano might be granted a license for 1948, the licensing period for which starts in October.

Lawrence Fireman Found Stabbed to Death

LAWRENCE, July 18 (AP)—A Lawrence veteran fireman was found stabbed to death in a busline waiting room today and police said they were questioning a 46-year-old man who walked into a police station with cuts on his hands, asking for treatment.

Police identified the dead man as Thomas J. Sessman, 52, driver of the fire department ambulance for about 25 years.

Roslindale Vet Housing

Mayor Hynes announced today that construction of a veterans' housing project at Capt. John's Hill, Roslindale, delayed for some time for lack of materials, was now ready to proceed.

Big League Debut—Henry Thompson, formerly with the Kansas City Monarchs, gets set to take a cut at the ball during his big league debut as second baseman for the St. Louis Browns in game against the Athletics.
